TIME TO VOTE

The Polls Are Yours. Civil rights and housing for the aged, a by-pass for Route 206 and municipal parking, recreation—and an old friend—consolidation.

These have been the issues in the 1963 campaign in Borough and Township and they are familiar issues, by and large. For many years, they have been part of life in Princeton, sometimes dormant, sometimes erupting under the pressures of an election campaign, but always present in one form or another.

The 1963 campaign has followed a familiar pattern: the "ins" running a passive campaign on the record, the "outs" flinging a challenge and saying, "Anything you can do, we can do better."

Borough. Residents will elect a mayor this year, choosing from Republican incumbent Henry S. Patterson and his Democratic opponent Minot C.
Morgan Jr. Mr. Morgan was mayor from 1946-48.

Voters will also choose two

PAT AND MIKE: Both these men would like to sit in the Mayor's chair in Borough Hall. Voters will decide on Tuesday which it will be: Henry Patterson, the Republican candidate, (left) or Minot C. Morgan Jr., the Democratic candidate (right).

councilmen. The Republican candidates are Dr. Ellwood W.
Godfrey, who is running for re-election, and A. Jerome Horton, sometimes referred to in the campaign as Arthur J.
Horton. Democratic candidates are Joseph R. Strayer and Paul Baldeagle.

Township. In this municipality, voters do not elect a mayor. They elect Committeemen who choose a mayor from their own number, usually the Committeeman with seniority (The next Township mayor will probably be William L. Wilson, elected two years ago. Mayor R. Kenneth Fairman is not running for re-election.)

Township Democrats have nominated William Sloane and John R. Yost Jr. Republicans have nominated Walter B. Foster Jr. and Russell Mount.

Civil Rights. The Borough's Democratic challenger, Minot
C. Morgan Jr., promised this week that on his first day as mayor, he would appoint a human rights commission with himself as chairman.

The Republican position is that privately - organized groups, such as PAHR, are more effective than a public commission would be.

Housing for the Elderly. Mr.
Morgan has charged that the racial issue is at the heart of the dispute over 50 units of public housing for the elderly on North Harrison Street. Mayor Patterson has denied this, saying that factors of density and planning create the basic issues.

In a statement this week,
Mr. Morgan said: "The Federal Housing Authority demands assurance of official support or they may well decide that Princeton has just been kidding through the delays of 10, these many months and years, and reallocate the funds to another community. On November 6, I will give them that assurance without qualification."

Route 92 (206 By-Pass). Mr.
Morgan and the Democrats charge that the Republicans are trying to take credit for progress on the by-pass although they had agreed with the Democrats not to make the issue a partisan one.

The Republicans retort that no such agreement ever existed and that they are fully aware of the bi-partisan efforts that have been made for the highway. (See Mailbox, page 23)

Parking. Referring to the "Battle of the Automobile," Mr. Morgan has urged the elimination of all-day parking, by ordinance if necessary; the construction of peripheral parking lots to keep the Borough from becoming black-topped, and establishment of jitney service into town from these outlying lots.

Mayor Patterson has replied that the only parking lot constructed during his administration was the Park Place lot, which had been started by the previous Democratic administration.

Consolidation. The latest issue to be raised concerns the work of the Dilley Commission, named early this year to study consolidation. Mr. Morgan says that the Republicans are taking credit for promoting Borough - Township cooperation, and he has charged his opponent with deliberately setting a post-election date (December 1) for the Commission's report.

In a statement this week,
Mayor Patterson said that the so-called Dilley Commission as a whole, with its sub-commissions, set the date "and did so without any political motive."
He also pointed out that formation of the Commission, with Mayor Fairman, "fulfilled one of my 1961 campaign pledges to Borough voters."

Recreation. An issue which has been thought of in Township terms crossed the line this year and became, in part, a Borough issue as well, with
Mr. Morgan and the Democrat-

Round-Up

Twenty-five years ago this week millions of people understandably panicked when they heard the ominous radio news flash that "men from Mars, armed with death rays, were landing in Grovers Mills, just east of Princeton." During the next hour, while other special cul-ins brought increasingly terrifying news over the radio, people fled in horror by car and by foot out of Trenton, New York, Philadelphia and other likely targets.

One brave member of the University Press Club and one brave scientist on the faculty set out together to reconnoiter the sector east of town. But all of the panic and even the two-man scouting mission were unnecessary.

There was, of course, no invasion — it was just the country's biggest, grimmest Halloween trick, which put millions of people into a swivel they would never forget. CBS was presenting a dramatization of H. G. Wells' "War of the Worlds" and the writer-narrator Orson Welles had turned fiction into something too close to realism.

What did Marshal Tito think of Princeton? He liked it. That is the word from Rae Yuglen, a senior at Princeton High School, who attended a reception for the Marshal in New York with her parents. He told her how much he had enjoyed his visit here, how warm the welcome had been, and, in particular, how much he and his wife enjoyed the Indian summer coloring, which is rarely seen in southeast Europe.

The Marshal also told Ray that the area around Princeton reminded him greatly of northern Slovenia. So now you don't need to take that trip to northern Slovenia you've been planning all these years.

Princeton Hospital has received donations bigger in amount but none larger in thoughtfulness than one recently presented to it via Mrs. George W. Gonover, wife of the hospital's board president. Margaret Griffin, 7-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon D. Griffin, and two contemporaries, Carolyn and Michelle Christen, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Christen, decided to sell golden-rod by the bunch, proceeds to be donated to the hospital.

While the marketability of their wares was understandable low among hay-fever sufferers, their profits, both gross and net, were $38. The sum was presented to Mrs. Gonover, who, in turn, gave it to an appreciative and thoroughly impressed hospital official.

day night's wind blew down the entire section of the fence on the Nassau Street side of the excavation.

How's business? TOWN TOPICS' quarterly index provides an illuminating report of the recent trend, and it makes pretty good reading (page 26). A Princeton woman's election to a position in the National Girl Scout Council heads the numerous items in People in the News (pages 24 and 25).

John D. Gordon, 79-year-old retired newspaperman (one-time Sunday news editor of the New York World) writes to urge Mayor Patterson's reelection this week in the last of the "Why I Plan to Vote" series. . . . Secretary of Princeton's Class of 1905, Mr. Gordon lives at 39 Wiggins Street. . . . the Democrats' side is backed by Joseph L. Are you for or against the $750 million bond issue — on whose success, the pundits claim, Gov. Hughes' future depends? . . . your fellow Princeton area residents give their comments in Question of the Week, page 21. . . . and in Mailbox, page 23, a number of others make known their views on topics ranging from politics to police protection.

Which team gained more Saturday on passes thrown by Cornell — Cornell or Princeton? new swimming pool and Township share in a joint public library. The question of civil rights has also been discussed.

In campaign statements this week, Republicans Walter B. Foster Jr. and Russell Mount said that Democrats were "ridiculing the swimming pool issue and the Human Rights Commission because they can't find anything else to talk about."

Mr. Mount said that by September 1 of this year, Republicans on Township Committee had carried out every one of the pledges made by candidates during the 1962 campaign.

"As a result," said Mr. Foster, "Democrats have tried to push us into a position of opposing the swimming pool. Who can be against a swimming pool?"

The candidates suggested that other projects might have priority. "I do not believe recreation is even our most pressing demand," said Mr. Foster.

Mr. Mount said that, in a community where there is "no expressed will to handle privately the problems in the field of civil rights, an official commission is essential, but where there is clearly the desire to handle these problems by citizens themselves, this is much the best and most effective machinery. Princeton is such a place."

In their final campaign statement, Mr. Yost and Mr. Sloane urged the re-establishment of two-party government in the Township. "There are real differences of opinion about the priority that should be given to Township matters," said Mr. Sloane. He said he thought Township Committee should give high priority to working out a plan which would attract rateables to the Township so that taxes could be held in line.

"The Republican Committee has not taken leadership in trying to attract research rateables; in fact, they have gone on record as opposing the idea."

"An alert government can pay attention to people without spending money at all," said Mr. Yost. "A Human Rights Commission would speak loudly to minority groups in town, and would show them that our public officials really cared."

"There is ample evidence," Mr. Yost concluded, "that a two-party government would provide a much-needed broadening of thought and action in Princeton Township."

The Chances? Princeton is a Republican community. Now and again, a Democrat is elected to office, but it is a Republican town. In 1961, Mayor Patterson defeated Democratic mayor Raymond F. Male, running for his third term, by 1977 to 1402 votes. About two-thirds of the electorate voted: 67.08 percent.

The last Democrat in the Township, William Marvel, served one term and was defeated for re-election in 1961 by William Wilson. All five members of Township Committee and all six members of Borough Council are Republicans.

McANENY NAMED HEAD

Of Princeton Country Day. Herbert McAneny has been appointed headmaster of Princeton Country Day School. Announcement of Mr. McAneny's selection was made by Dr. Harold W. Dodds, chairman of the board of trustees of the Princeton Day Schools.

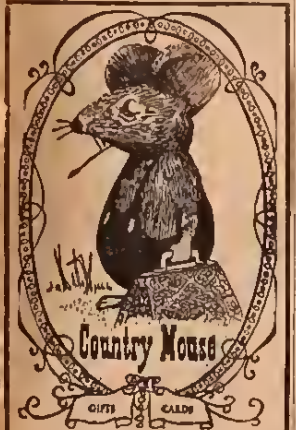

"It is the unanimous and enthusiastic opinion of the board that this appointment become effective immediately," said Dr. Dodds. "Herbert McAneny has served Princeton Country Day School for many years, and he is one of the most respected and beloved men in the educational circles of Princeton," he added.

A native of New York City, Mr. McAneny graduated from the Riverdale School and from Williams College, Class of 1923. He received a B.A. degree from Lincoln College, Oxford, and went to his first teaching assignment at Milton Academy in Milton, Mass.

From 1927 until 1931, when Miss Saums was awarded a bicycle, the others a $2.50 gift certificate.

he joined the faculty at Princeton Country Day, Mr. McAneny was with the publishing firm of Century Company in New York.

Mr. McAneny's wife, the former Marguerite Loud is general manager of McCarter Theatre. She is also curator of the theater collection of the University's Firestone Library.

His son, Colin, graduated from Princeton in 1952 and is currently studying for his Ph.D. in Geology at Johns Hopkins University. His older daughter, Wendy, graduated from Smith in 1954 and is married to Norman Bradburn, an assistant professor of psychology at the University of Chicago.

Mr. McAneny's younger daughter, Leshe, is a member of the technical staff at McCarter. A graduate of Western Reserve in 1958, she received an M.F.A. degree from the Yale Drama School in 1962. Both daughters are graduates of Miss Fine's School.

Mr. McAneny has taught both English and French at PCD and, as assistant headmaster during the past year, has been responsible for the day-to-day operation of the school. He is a former president of the Princeton Community Players, of the Historical Society of Princeton, and is former head of Princeton's Ground Observer Corps.

Mr. McAneny is a member of the civil defense and disaster control committee. An enthusiastic hiker and mountain climber, he belongs to the Adirondack Mountain Club and the Forty-Sixers. Membership in the last-named organization is restricted to those who have climbed all 46 of the Adirondacks more than 4,000 feet high.

According to the announcement, Mr. McAneny's appointment as headmaster of PCD will enable Thomas B. Hartmann, principal of the Princeton Day Schools, to devote more of his time to the development of the new school facilities. Opening date is scheduled for September 1965 on the 72-acre campus on The Great Road.

FUND HITS 50%
Amount Totals $177,400. The 1963 United Fund-Red Cross Campaign for the Princeton area has reached the halfway mark with $177,400 of the $354,833 total already raised. Warren W. Wagner, chairman of this year's campaign, has announced.

Leaders of the drive say that, based on early returns, the 1963 campaign should result in meeting its goal "if every resident and area employee gives 'thoughtfully' on the basis of a 'fair share' gift."

Division totals to date show:
• Special Gifts — Co-Chairmen, G. Victor Davis and Hugh D. Wise Jr.; $79,895 for 70% of $115,000 quota.
• Research — Chairman, Arthur N. Curtiss; $49,180 for 43% of $115,000 quota.

• Mercantile — Chairman, Theodore S. Reed; $4,107 for 33% of $12,000 quota.

• Professions — Co-Chairmen, Chester R. Stroup and John J. McKenna; $18,185 for 37% of $48,000 quota.

• University — Chairman, James G. Allen; $13,246 for 37% of $35,500 quota.

• Building Trades — Chairman, George R. Griffing; $1,500 for 25% of $6,000 quota.

• Shopping Center — Co-Chairmen, Donald S. Nelson and R. L. Lenhart; $760 for 25% of $3,000 quota.

• Neighborhood — Chairmen, Norman O. Hood, Mrs. W. Kedzie Teller, Mrs. Albert W. Ziegler, Henry W. Jeffers and Bartlett Bailey; $10,875 for 34% of $32,000 quota.

One of the largest divisions for solicitation is the Princeton neighborhood, under the chairmanship of Mr. and Mrs. Norman O. Hood. Area chairmen in Princeton are: Mrs. Amasa Bishop, Mrs. Robert Dilley, Mrs. William Cherry, Mrs. John Marks, Mrs. James Floyd, Mrs. Leslie Vivian, Mrs. McVitty Starks, Mrs. Peter Putnam, Miss Katherine Lyons and Mrs. Wilson Coan.

Campaign Chairman Wagner adds: "The leaders and solicitors for the neighborhood division are to be congratulated for their hard and effective work. We hope that they will be able to wind up their calls as soon as possible. Every contribution is needed if the campaign goal is to be reached for the fourth year in a row."

ACCIDENT REPORT

Merced Bridge Hit Twice. Township and Borough accidents dockets were swelled last week with reports of several mishaps. Three in the Township were triggered by Monday's light rain which coated roadway leaves and turned them into banana peels.

Just before noon, Kathryn D. Orr, 66, of Lakewood Ohio, and Gail W. Zenel, 31, 536 Lake Drive, collided head-on in the center of the Merced Bridge when the Orr car, a 1964 Cadillac, skidded on the slippery roadway. The entire front ends of both cars were extensively damaged.

Mrs. Zenel received lacerations of the eye and multiple abrasions. She also complained of abdominal pains. Her son, James, age 4, was shaken up but uninjured. Mrs. Orr was slightly injured.

According to Township police, Mrs. Orr applied her brakes after rounding the sharp curve approaching the bridge and skidded over the center line into the Zenel car. Police issued no summonses.

At 8 in the morning the same day, a single car mishap on Cherry Hill Road led to a second, two-car accident a half-hour later. Both accidents occurred near the intersection of Ridgeview Road.

Jean Gray, 61, 17 Madison Street, told police as she was descending a series of small hills on Cherry Hill, the car's right wheels went off the edge of the roadway into a small ditch. Unable to steer back onto the road, she hit a Public Service pole.

A half hour later, Paul E. Pellerin, 32, Princeton Junction, told police, he swerved to the right into a bank when he noticed a car approaching in his lane. His car was struck by the oncoming automobile.

The driver of the second car was Irma Dommasch, 46, of Blawenburg. She said that she had stopped because her lane was blocked by a car in a previous accident. Then, after blowing her horn, she told police, she continued on in the opposite lane.

Mrs. Dommasch complained of chest pains following the accident. A passenger in the other car, Claude Guyot Jeanmin, 177, Harrison Street, received a leg bruise. As yet, police have made no charges.

Earlier in the week, Mrs. Eleanor Howard, 32, of Trenton also failed to make the curve leading to the Mercer Bridge.

Better bundle
Snug and tight.*

A record high of 82 over the weekend, a near record low in the 30's Wednesday morning. No wonder the tribe which brings Indian Summer each year has departed for warmer parts.

Somewhat colder than usual for the next few days, the Mau reports, with generally clear weather prevailing. November—at the beginning, at least—will be little different than October in this respect. Less than half an inch fell last month, and there's none currently on the way.

sions Mr. Tucker was charged with a red light violation.

A momentary adjustment of a pair of sunglasses precipitated a three-car mishap on N. Tulane Street.

As reconstructed by the Borough Police, Sima Milusheewa, 47, 330 Slate Road, hit a parked car and forced it into another when her attention was diverted as she adjusted her sunglasses. The crash loosened two of her front teeth and lacerated her lip.

The parked cars were owned by Alexander J. Bartolino, 57 Tulane Street, and by Anthony P. Trani of Trenton. Mr. Bartolino's car was damaged in the front and rear. No charges have been made by the police.

TO PRESENT EXHIBIT

Princeton Then and Now. The Princeton Preservation Committee will sponsor an exhibit of pictures at Borough Hall beginning November 12 marking the community's sesquicentennial celebration.

The display is also being presented by the Princeton Historical Society with the co-operation of the Borough and Mayor Patterson. The exhibition will last through November 23.

Included in the display will be pictures of Princeton architecture in various past eras along with its modern look. The university has contributed a picture collection of houses and shops of long ago.

There will also be a number of buildings shown in transit from their old locations to their present ones. Many of the houses now on quieter streets of the town once stood on Nassau Street.

Plans are being made for schoolchildren to take advantage of the exhibit. Groups with teachers as guides will follow the town's growth from its beginnings to the present.

ZONING BOARD MEETS

But Delays Four Decisions.

The Borough Zoning Board of Adjustment scheduled an executive session for this Wednesday to weigh four requests presented at last week's public session. It approved a variance requested by Author Nathaniel Burt, 108 Mercer Street, for an 18 sq. ft. extension on the second floor.

Three Nassau Street properties were held for discussion at the executive session: South's garage at 2-4 Nassau, where plans are being made for seven apartments; First National Bank at 90 Nassau and the Jugtown Delicatessen, 380 Nassau, both of which plan building rear extensions. The Board will also consider issuing a variance for changing the location of a planned garage at 41 Harriet Drive.

As the next regularly scheduled meeting falls on Thanksgiving Day, the Board will meet on November 21.

BIRTHS

Two Sets Of Twins. Twins were born to two Princeton couples last weekend at Princeton Hospital. Mr. and Mrs. John Keigler of 50 Randall Road became parents of a boy and a girl on October 26; Mr. and Mrs. William Field of 55 Broadripple Drive welcomed twin boys on October 27. In all 24 children were born at the hospital last week; 14 were boys.

Sons were born to Mr. and Mrs. Hawley C. Waterman, Jr., 140 Snowden Lane; Mr. and Mrs. Gaius Mount, Carter Road, and Mr. and Mrs. Roman Guzik, 37 Kendall Road, Kendall Park, all on October 27; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Frattarola, 210 Fisher Place, Penns Neck, and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Wenograd, 326 Glenn Avenue, Trenton, both on October 21; Mr. and Mrs. Samuel W. McKibbins, 8 Lumar Road, Trenton, October 22; Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Freidank, 23 Oakdale Village, Route 31, New Brunswick, and Mr. and Mrs. Richard D. DeCamp, 145 Ewing Street, both on October 23; the Rev. and Mrs. Thomas D. Parker, Perrineville, October 24; Mr. and Mrs. Gennaro Buono, 293 Nassau Street, and Mr. and Mrs. John Glute, 5 Emerald Road, Franklin Park, both on October 25.

Daughters were born to Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Smith, Greenwood Lake, N. Y., Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Rost, 61 S. Stanworth Drive; Mr. and Mrs. James W. Wickenden, 7-B Hibben Apartments, and Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Pincura, 224-C Harrison Street, all on October 21; Mr. and Mrs. Benton B. Camper, Pine Brae Drive, Skillman, October 22; Mr. and Mrs. Caspar Curjel, 99 Einstein Drive, October 23; Mr. and Mrs. James W. Kohler, 8 Rumson Road, Franklin Park, October 24; Mr. and Mrs. Russell S. Clayton, Jr., 18 Ryan Road, Cranbury, October 25.

THIEVES TAKE TV SETS

From Lang's Nassau Service. Sometime between 5 p.m. on Sunday and early the next morning, thieves entered Bob Lang's Nassau Service appliance store on Route 206 and carried off five television sets and one stereo record player. The six pieces were valued at $1,017.63.

Township police said entry was gained by breaking a rear window. Robert Drummond, the store manager, reported the theft.

MUSEUM STILL LOOKING

"I Brought An Owl ... " A snowy white owl (stuffed), an old sword in its scabbard, whole stables full of sea horses and a 16-shilling note from the Philadelphia of 1771 have been proudly taken to the new Princeton Junior Museum for display — on loan only, of course. One donor came all the way from Valley Stream, Long Island, with his contribution.

Although 117 boys and girls took their treasures to the museum last week-end, there is still room for more. Children are invited to come this week-

News Of The THEATRES

NON-HUMANS COMING

Obratsov's Puppets. The puppet creations of Sergei Obratsov and their Russian master will bow before a McCarter Theatre audience on Saturday, November 9, at a 2:30 matinee.

This is not only the puppets' sole appearance in Princeton, it is also their only — well, almost only — appearance outside New York, where they are presently engaged in a six-weeks schedule of appearances. (The only other outside-New York appearance will be in Cambridge, Mass.) In the words of the Herald-Tribune, "Only non-humans can afford to miss seeing them."

The puppet-show is the kind that will appeal to adults and to older children, about junior high level and up. It is not a traditional marionette show, and youngsters below the age of 11 or 12 would probably find it boring. This is the word from the McCarter management, which is so excited about its coup in booking Obratsov that it wants to be sure everybody who comes to McCarter has a good time.

Mr. Obratsov is fluent in English, and the program will be entirely in English, with occasional diversions into pantomime. The puppeteer, a legend in his native land, has served for 30 years director of The Obratsov Puppet Theatre, which is Russia's largest.

The complete company includes about 200 "actors" and several thousand puppets, with 16 complete productions in repertoire. For Princeton, however, Mr. Obratsov will offer only himself and his own original puppet creations.

IF YOU LIKE Town Topics, the best way to express your appreciation is to mention it to our advertisers.

OBRATSOV THE GREAT: Russia's master puppeteer will bring some of his puppet friends (here's one, right now) to McCarter for a one-man performance on Saturday, Nov. 9.

O'NEILL, PLAY OPENS

In McCarter Series. It is a sombre set with grey and illumined, from time to time, by a kind of chill, grey light. It is Eugene O'Neill's autobiography, "Long Day's Journey Into Night," the second offering in McCarter Theatre's autumn season.

The play will be given three more times: this Thursday, Friday and Saturday night, with an 8 p.m. curtain each night.

The journey is, of course, a long one and McCarter presents it, uncut, in a four-hour evening. The movie version was only slightly more than half of the original script.

This raises an inevitable esthetic question about cutting or not cutting, and whether it is indeed true that every word O'Neill put into this agonized play is of equal value to every other and so sacred that it cannot be excised. It is the opinion of this reviewer that "Journey" would not suffer from cutting.

There are flashback speeches — "You've just told me some high spots in your memories. Want to hear mine?" — beautiful to hear and to read, but super-cargo for a play mounted on a stage.

All this is academic, of course the complete and uncut play is what we have. "Journey" shows us "the four hunted Tyrone," as O'Neill called them: the fey mother living in her world of dreams, the father who had been one of the most popular actors of his day, the cynical and sullen elder brother and the younger brother, Eugene himself, the young man with the touch of the poet and the touch of consumption.

O'Neill gives us his family as they live out a single day of crisis. The pain and anguish they inflict on each other, grating harshly against the love they have for one another, create the tension for a haunting and moving drama.

It must have had a strong influence on Edward Albee because the resemblance to "Virginia Woolf" is marked. The chief difference is the depth of pity, forgiveness and compassion that O'Neill has for his tormented family, a depth which Albee does not touch.

In the McCarter production, we have the same cast of four principals that played "Journey" this summer at the theatre in Williamstown, Massachusetts. It was a wise decision to import this package cast intact to Princeton with its director. The difficulties of rehearsing "Journey" on a repertory schedule with a repertory cast would have been so impossible to surmount that the play would probably have been hopelessly mangled in the attempt.

As it is, we see a unified production whose actors work together as one. "Journey" is a play without a single dominating character and so, fittingly, is the cast. If Olympia Dukakis seems to stand out as Mary Tyrone, it is because she succeeds, with an excruciatingly difficult role, utilizing her technical proficiency to make us believe in the shy convent girl who has lost her true self forever. She maneuvers with complete skill Mary's gnarled, rheumatic hands, her innocent but ominously glittering eyes and her voice, sometimes fresh and girlish, sometimes chillingly detached.

Michael Ebert, as her youngest son, shows us the youthful O'Neill, full of passion and doom. An actor who has matured since he was with the McCarter APA company three years ago, Mr. Ebert starts with the advantage of being well-cast in his part, and goes on to give the character both substance and life.

James Noble as the elder son and Louis Zorich as the father, delineate skillfully the love-hate-envy relationships that make life a nightmare for the Tyrone. If there is one weakness on the acting side it may be with Mr. Zorich who, in spite of all the references to Shakespeare, never quite shows us a man who is "an actor, in all his unconscious habits of speech, movement and gesture," as O'Neill specified he should be.

William D. Roberts has given the production a set drowned in grey dust, with an — Continued on Page 6

cient wicker porch furniture, creaking rockers and the very pinch of stinginess so characteristic of the elder Tyrone. Louise Ober has composed the occasional, eerie music that floats unobtrusively but effectively around Mary Tyrone.

It is a sound production, then — acted with sureness, directed by Tom Brennan with coherence and feeling, a worthy addition to McCarter's "living library."

NATIONAL BALLET DUE
Plans Matinee Show. The first Princeton performance by the new National Ballet of Washington, D.C., will be held at 3 p.m. on Sunday, November 10, at McCarter. The Ballet is appearing under the auspices of The Princeton Ballet Society.

The company will dance the classic "Les Sylphides," "Con Amore," a new production; "Hommage au Ballet," choreographed by director Frederic Franklin, and "Sylvia - Pas de Deux," featuring Sonia Arova and Steven Grebel.

Tickets may be obtained at McCarter.

WHO'S IN THE WINGS?
Goldsmith. "She Stoops to Conquer" will bring a touch of lightness to the McCarter fall repertoire after "Hedda Gabler" and "Long Day's Journey Into Night."

Oliver Goldsmith's classic comedy will open next Thursday and will be given six performances on two weekends. Several familiar faces will be cast in "She Stoops."

Christine Pickles, Donald Moffat and Karl Light are well-known to McCarter audiences for their work in this and other seasons. Mr. Moffat, who scored decisively as Tesman in "Hedda Gabler," will direct the Goldsmith and act in it as well.

BOB DYLAN!
In Last "Midnighter," The composer of "Blowin' in the Wind," Bob Dylan, will come to McCarter Theatre on Saturday, November 16, at midnight for his only college concert of the season, and one of only five he will be giving in the entire eastern United States.

This will be the last to McCarter's "Midnight Specials." Tickets for it are now on sale at the box-office, with mail and phone orders accepted.

Dylan is regarded by those who know as the fastest-rising star in the folk-music field since Joan Baez, with whom he frequently performs. His two albums have been "best-sellers."

PLAYHOUSE AND PRINCE
A New Kind of Love (through Tuesday). Don't let the title cross you up. This is no Freudian trip through the dark, twisted alleys of Greater Libidoland.

Just the opposite. There's plenty of light and air, if not much substance, in this comedy which Paul Newman and Joanne Woodward use as a catharsis from their customary roles in less frivolous stuff.

Newman is a newsman who is rusticated to Paris for playing footsie with his employer's wife. Woodward is a careering, no-men-allowed chick who meets Newman on the plane going over.

They tiff, split only to meet again and fall in love for keeps. It's a slice-of-life thing — life, that is, if you believe what you read in the Ladies' Home Journal.

Maurice Chevalier is a sideman in the film "a cameo guest star," it says here, and he skips through a few of his old standards. Every little breeze still whispers "Louise," in case you don't realize it.

STONED: Joanne Woodward finds that enough champagne produces alcoholic astigmatism in "A New Kind of Love," at the Prince and the Playhouse.

"A New Kind of Love" doesn't pretend to be high cinema art. Sure, the movie is featherweight and unmemorable, but it's also good-humored and cheerful. And Paris, even in gaudiest Technicolor, is still one-of-a-kind as a backdrop.

GARDEN

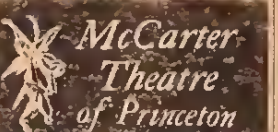

The Leopard (through Tuesday), made from Giuseppe di Lampedusa's fine novel, unwittingly resembles the animal for which it is named in that it is both colorful and spotty. Colorful because it is a rich show of highly decorative set pieces portraying the decline of nobility in 19th century Sicily. Spotty because what action there is in the film is most uneven.

The movie is also, unfortunately, unlike a leopard in both speed and agility. It is slow and ponderous.

The story line of "The Leopard" can be summarized in a couple of quotes from Lampedusa's original: "The abolition of feudal rights had swept away duties as well as privileges" from the Sicilian aristocracy. "Wealth which had achieved its object was composed now only of essential oils — and, like essential oils, it soon evaporated." That's it.

The collection of brilliant color reproductions which provide the background is loosely tied together only by a thread of confused and confusing narrative and by a string of awkwardly dubbed dialogue. All in all, "The Leopard" is elephantine in size and weight.

For best results, call for "The Leopard" at advertising is Walnut 4-2200.

IT'S NEW To Us

IT'S NEEDLE TIME
And Christmas Is Coming.
Hallowe'en is not too soon to begin, if you are one of those nimble needlewomen with the ambition and the skill to Make Your Own for Christmas giving.

We start off at Clayton's, where crewel embroidery is still selling strong. For Christmas, you might tackle something quite ambitious like the black or ecru handbag with bird and tree design. It has a "tortoise shell" frame which you can attach yourself once the bag has been finished.

The same bird and tree design, "Jacobean," they call it, appears on a 16-inch square pillow, tasseled on each corner. A round pillow has a circle of flowers against the black, gold, ecru, pumpkin or willow green background.
(Aren't those interesting new colors for crewel? In the past, ecru and black have been about all you could find.)

There are as many pillows as you have friends to make them for, some in traditional patterns like the "Jacobean," others more contemporary in feeling, like a sprightly scattering of mushrooms or the pillow pair with jaunty roosters facing each other as the pillows stand side by side.

For smaller projects, you could select a crewel apron on Belgian linen, an eyeglass case, a clutch purse (one for evening has sequins worked into the embroidery) or a picture to put in a frame.

Needlepointers will look over the fruit designs (there's a delicious watermelon) which can be used as chair seats or framed as pictures. Crossstitchers will work happily at the new samplers, perhaps choosing a patriotic one ("Firm, united, let us stand, rallying 'round our liberty") or a folksy one for the kitchen ("The fire burns bright, the coffee is brewed; the toast is all brown, the chicken is stewed.")

A new Christmas stocking kit by Columbia is worth investigating. And there are unlimited possibilities in the Christmas felt, two yards wide, part wool. (Other colors besides the traditional Christmas shades, too.)

Bear Brand has a cable cardigan kit with 16 colors, just to make selection almost impossible. Knit 16 sweaters, why not? We like the white cardigan kit with colorful over-embroidery in panels down the front and a single panel down the back. Better start this one right away!

Clayton's has a treasure-house of glittering party trim for holiday clothes or for the presents you're going to make.
Sleek gold cords in various widths, silver and gold rope braided together, shimmering gold fringe, gold rick-rack (sequins in one pattern) and almost as much in silver.

AT THE MACHINE
Brocade's the Word. Rosy pink and gold brocade in an all-over feather pattern will make the most dazzling holiday dress you ever had. The Fabric Shop on Chambers Street has it, all bolted and ready for you. If you're the quiet type, buy a pastel brocade, in pale aqua, true powder blue or pink.

Let us suppose that glitter is not for you. A deep cranberry or a royal blue brocade, a deep teal satin brocade or a bright lime green will show off just as dramatically as all the gold. And the Chambers Street Shop also has the palest silver blue with big, soft roses widely spaced against the pale sky. The overall effect is a silver shimmer.

Red taffeta, of course, and red peau de sole. And for young ladies who like to sew, or mothers who are indulgent,
there is bengaline in pink,
white or blue, just the right weight for a party shift.

Squares of colored felt are stacked on the shelf, waiting for pinking shears to snip them into holiday designs, and the pattern books are full of ideas.

KITS TO KNIT
At Knitting Shop. A whole wall of knitting kits panels.
The Knitting Shop on Tulane Street. We plan to begin with a mohair shell, simple as knit-a-row-purl-a-row, in pastels by Bernet. On down the line, we find, in a different mood, Irish fishermen kits for men or women. ("Irish fishermen," of course, are those wonderful oatmeal-colored sweaters that grow even bandomier with years of wearing.)
Pure silk fabric for a skirt,

Christmas!

Tuck your Christmas cards into the fireplace — a felt fireplace, 18 inches high with Santa's picture over the mantel, little socks hanging from the lintel and red bows and bells on each side. Just one of a vast collection of Christmas decorations to make now for tomorrow, at The Knitting Shop.

Felt napkin rings have sequined angels, Santas and trees for identification. Felt angels to hang on your tree wear sequins without a ny need for identification.

"Deck the Halls . . ." in green sequins spreads across a white felt hanging to go over your door or mantel, and the biggest Santa you ever saw decorates a great big black felt stocking 10 inches across at the top.

Make, for Daddy, a green felt vest with a Christmas ornament on the left pocket and a snowman on the top right.

pure silk yarn for a blouse top, a combination to make the happiest gift ever. For tweedier relatives, you might make one of Pauline Denham's bulky sweater-skirt sets with a flake-twist yarn that combines thick and thin, and a heathery tweed for the skirt.
(Children or grown-ups, for this one.)

On the needlepoint side, there are Continental soldiers in authentic costumes, from the Delaware Blues, the Second South Carolina Infantry and others. You frame them, once you're finished and hang them on the wall. Bell-pulls, chair seats and flower prints to frame are also in the needlepoint department.

And for the free-lancers,
The Knitting Shop has 54 cubes full of yarn, everything from bulkies to the finest mohair and baby yarn.

Make a Jaeger sweater for your favorite teen-ager, and a sturdy Varsity sweater for the youngest football player on your Christmas list.

ORCHESTRA OPENS

Princeton Symphony Plays. Tuesday night's opener for the Princeton Symphony Orchestra, Nicholas Harsanyi, conductor, offered four soloists playing three compositions accompanied by 6 musicians. Pianists Louise Strunsky and Malcolm Peyton began the evening with the Mozart Concerto for Two Pianos, K. 365, the only concerto by Mozart for two pianos and written in 1799, a not too productive year in his life.

Generally there was an over-vigorousness in the decorative passages from the soloists which resulted in forced gaieties in the first movement, a brittleness in the second movement and a rough-hewn sound in the third. Dynamically the orchestra seemed to be playing Mozart but the pianists seemed to be playing Beethoven. Some of the Mozart letters offer testimony regarding Mozart's own piano playing, suggesting "the passages should flow like oil... a cantabile is necessary on the piano... and, it is easier to play fast than slow."

Saint-Saens has suggested that our mezzo forte would be a Mozart forte. The performance was creditable and good to hear but lacked the necessary "mell".

The second offering of the evening was a Concerto da Camera (1954) for violin solo by Princeton composer Noel Sokoloff and played by Princeton violin soloist Joseph Kovacs. In the program notes Mr. Sokoloff stated that the first movement is too long in the whole relationship and the third too short. We agreed with him.

The slow movement, Adagio, caught this reviewer's ear as a very cohesive piece with all of the ingredients in at once, but played a little too fast for comfortable listening. Mr. Sokoloff's string orchestra was interestingly added to by a clarinet and flute which at times addressed the ear with enchanting sonorities.

In the first movement one's listening was dissuaded from the soloist when it shouldn't have been by certain oblique counterpoints. Many times Mr. Kovacs was doing more than we heard. The cadenza was violinistically written but gave one the feeling, as so many cadenzas do, that the composer was obliged to write it.

As Mr. Sokoloff has said, the last movement was too short to state its case and the result might have been better if played "as one" to the second movement and used as a coda. The orchestra seemed more "jelled" in this work than they did in the Mozart.

Mr. Kovacs must be complimented for playing a discerning performance with fine technical and musical control. The idiom used by Mr. Sokoloff is one of melodic priority with those melodies being wroughtable and easily developed. The harmonic result is one that has been around and worn well for the last thirty years and as he says in his notes the piece is meant to be enjoyed.

Dvorak Concerto Heard. After intermission the Dvorak Concerto in B Minor for Violoncello, Opus 104, was given a workmanlike reading by David Wells, former solo cellist with the Princeton Symphony. Dvorak wrote this concerto in 1895, and it was one of the last pieces written by him in this country.

There is little doubt why this piece has success in symphony halls. The orchestration is a masterpiece of accompaniment in that while the orchestra is totally expressive and never dubbed-in, the soloist has no trouble being heard.

The thematic of the first movement are good for both orchestra and soloist, so good for the orchestra in fact, that in the opening three minutes one feels sure it could have gone on as orchestral music. For the most part the cello plays high in this movement because of the inherent excitement of the material.

The second movement, with its more western European sound, allows the cello a more comfortable lower register. This movement that contains the obvious Brahms nuance and a dash of the "New World".

The third movement gets underway with a not-to-be-mistaken "we are here" sound from the orchestra and moves immediately into the bright light reserved for last movements. Before the final phrases where earlier music is recalled and a big ending is attained, there are more sounds from the "New World" and one of those charming Dvorak melodies which acts for a while as if it doesn't know which way to turn but somehow gets out of it.

Sprinkled liberally through the three movements is a flirtation between the solo flute and the cello. This becomes more idyllically intense as the movements progress and is there for "all to hear" in the last movement.

Mr. Wells's playing left no doubt in the listener's ears what the piece was all about but the big phrase was missing. The interpretation from the orchestra seemed more knowledgeable than from the soloist. This may be a piece that a cellist has to live with for many years.

Mr. Harsanyi is to be congratulated on a very good first night. He knew what he wanted every step of the way and the places booted by the orchestra were minimal.

It is the hope of this reviewer that he will have the opportunity of hearing the Princeton Symphony Orchestra in a program of music for orchestra. All over this country the symphonic diet is restricted because of a general fear among symphony boards that the yearly deficit will be insurmountable unless their season is freighted with journeyman artists in the hope that they will attract an audience. Perhaps Princeton is the town in which people would come to hear a symphony orchestra play music written for symphony orchestra. Princeton has a good symphony orchestra.

DANCE BAND?

Elizabethan Style, The London Times, not usually given to flippancy, has described the Julian Bream Consort as "an Elizabethan Dance Band." Princeton music-lovers are invited to decide for themselves when the consort appears in McCarter next Tuesday at 8:30 as part of its first American tour.

Organized in 1961 by Mr. Bream, who is an eminent lutenist and guitarist, the six members first performed together at the Aldeburgh Festival in England that same year. The consort resembles the New York Pro Musica in its concentration on the instrumental and vocal works of the Elizabethan period. Mr. Bream has organized the group to resemble as closely as possible a true "Elizabethan Consort" with violin, alto flute and viola da gamba and a rhythm section.

RALLY PLANNED

By Folk Singers. A group of amateur folk-song enthusiasts will hold an informal "Folk-Sing" at 8 p.m. Friday at the YW-YMCA.

All interested members of the community are invited to bring their folk instruments and participate. The group is endeavoring to assess interest in a Princeton Folk Song Society. There will be no charge.

THREE CONCERTS SET

At Trenton Center. Heidi Krall, Metropolitan Opera soprano, will give a recital at 8:30 p.m. Sunday at the Jewish Community Center of Trenton. The concert is the first of a series of three sponsored by the Center.

Joseph Kovacs, violinist and concertmaster of the Trenton and Princeton symphony orchestras, will be featured at the February 2 concert. On May 3, Lois Shaffer, pianist, and Marshall Glatzer, tenor, will share the program.

All concerts will begin at 8:30 at the Center, 939 Lower Ferry Road, Trenton. Subscriptions for the series, limited to 150, are $6 for Center members and $7.50 for non-members, available at the Center.

tweed, Gretchen's can arrange to have leather dyed for you in a color to match the fabric. Skins or skin pieces are about $7.50 up to $15 for that whole white kidskin.

For $2, you can make two aprons. They come, printed on cotton, two to a panel. You cut them out, trim and hem the sashes, sew them on, and there you are! There's an early American design, a frivolous bit with a black "lace" border and sash, and a cheerful thing with butter yellow scallops and a border of yellow carnations.

Nice idea for a little girl just learning to sew because the work isn't taxing, and the project is done in no time at all.

Brocades at Gretchen's too, of course. We like an abstract in brown, deep rust, copper and grey laced with gold. A heavy, quilted brocade has trapunto work around its blue roses and olive leaves. The background is black. A silvery-gold lattice of embroidery has been traced against one supple fabric. What a shift it would make!

museum is on the third floor of Borough Hall.

The most popular feature now on display seems to be the microscope and slide collection supervised by Dr. Lionel Rebhun of the university's biology department. The seed-collecting field trip planned for this Saturday with Miss Dorothy Compton, proved to be popular, too: it has been sold out.

Boys and girls who come to the museum are invited to sign up for special programs in microscopy, rocks, dinosaurs and omelette, stamps, animals, and a course in rocks and jewels which will allow its participants to use real rock-polishing machines.

Besides the owl and his sea-horse friends, the museum now has from its young friends a beaver trunk partially worked over by the beaver himself, pheasant wings, sand dollars, and rocks and stones of every conceivable kind and size. Each item has been numbered and entered in the museum register with the name of the lender.

Fresh paint and new shelving on the third floor of Borough Hall has come from Jaycee volunteers. William Enders, John Parker, Sven Kaslor and Bernard Weinstein of the Jaycees served as hosts to the boys and girls last weekend.

HALLOWEEN MARCH SET

Poster Awards Made, The annual Halloween parade, sponsored by the Princeton Church Youth Council, will begin at 6:30 p.m. this Thursday from the Chambers Street parking lot.

Joining the line of march to the Nassau Street School will be the Princeton University Marching Band and the Imperial Debs Drill Team. The Debs will give an exhibition at the party which follows the parade.

Also on the program are prizes donated by Princeton merchants, a magic show by Rick Rosenthal, refreshments and a film, "A Gift To Grow On."

Poster Winners. The Youth Council has announced the winners of its annual UNICEF poster competition. Grade school awards went to Bobby Boyer, Alvin McGowan and Leonard Kingsley. Anne Lynch, Dolores Crocetti, Mark Warren, Lucia Rossi and Pamela Wells won honorable mention.

Junior high winners are Barbara Sonnenschein, John Lehmann and Eva Marie Hejrenichs. Honorable mention went to Doug Adams, Chris Stokes, David Damico, Mary Derby and Bonnie Crane. Prizes of $5, $2 and $1 were awarded by the judges, Samuel McDowell and Mrs. Mary Wilson.

$2000 Goal. The young people will undertake to raise $2000 for UNICEF in a house-to-house canvass this Saturday. Collectors will meet at the Jewish Center Nassau Street at 7:30 p.m. for assignments. A dance at the Center will follow the solicitation. Paul Eisler's Eighth Notes will play, donating their services. Interested residents may send checks, payable to "Princeton UNICEF Drive" to Jim Jones, 73 Brookstone Drive, Princeton.

TO SHOW FASHIONS

At Jewish Center. The Women's Division of the Princeton Jewish Center will hold its seventh annual dessert fashion show Wednesday, November 13, at 12:30.

Housing Appeal Successful

Kenneth M. Rendall Jr., manager of Princeton University Housing, has expressed gratitude to the Princeton community for its response to an appeal for graduate student housing facilities. Many more rooms were made available than ever before, Mr. Rendall said, and all single students have been accommodated. A continuing problem is that of housing for married graduates. All married students have now been settled, though many have had to rent apartments as far away as Franklin Park, Levittown and Belle Mead.

Margaret Rudkin invites you to rediscover the wonderful taste of real bread!

Use this coupon to save 25¢ on the new big family loaf of Pepperidge Farm Bread!

MARGARET RUDKIN of Pepperidge Farm is proudly old-fashioned about bread-making.

She insists on old-fashioned ingredients, like whole milk...creamy butter...clover honey. And old-fashioned slow baking, to let the flavor develop.

As a result, Pepperidge Farm Bread still looks and smells and tastes as delicious as bread did when it was baked at home in the kitchen oven!

Now this firm-textured, positively nostalgic bread comes in a new big family loaf. Thirty-four delicious slices of old-fashioned flavor. Pepperidge Farm makes the kind of bread you want for your family—now in the thrifty big loaf that's right for your family.

Try it. Rediscover the hearty satisfaction there is in real bread.

Then mail both end labels with the coupon above for your 25¢ refund.

ART In Princeton

NEW YORK SHOW HERE
At Gallery 100. With one exception, the catalogue of landscape prints by leading printmakers, at Gallery 100 until November 21, has come directly from the New York exhibition which was enthusiastically reviewed by John Canaday, Art Critic for The New York Times and author of "Embattled Critic." He had his favorites, and we have ours and Gallery 100 hopes that visitors to this show will vote for their preferences in order to guide the gallery in future selections of prints.

Surprises in Old Forms. No matter the priorities, the interesting thing about this exhibition is that it has been chosen to appeal to many tastes and, incidentally, is an education in new techniques and expressions of modern printmaking.

ing. For instance, we thought we knew what an etching or woodcut was.

Nowadays, an etching is not necessarily a black and white "impression taken in ink from an etched plate," it may be a vari-colored production such as Gabor Peterdi's "Stones," glowing with reds and oranges and full of texture perhaps superimposed after the printing. A woodcut need not be a grainy, bold design but can emerge in six or more tawny tones of autumn as in "Indian Summer" by Ruth Kerkvius, or, more amazing still, a woodcut can look like an etching when Jacques Hnizdovsky deals faithfully with all the minutiae of fields gradually receding into the distance.

Mario Azuna has produced the first serigraph ever to be printed on canvas, and though you may not see a relation to his subject matter in "Royal Gardens," you find infinite variations in tone throughout the abstraction and a quality of silk screening. This is certainly a technical accomplishment and may be "a landmark in the history of printmaking."

Realism and Abstraction. Al Blaustein's "Romantic Landscape" is the kind of open and shut day which Constable loved to paint, and Blaustein has done it very much as if it were on canvas too; the ink has body as he creates the romantic mood of churning clouds through which the light drills downward. Karl Schrag's "Dark Trees at Noon" is also an etching but with the feeling of Japanese brush strokes and the boldness of a cut-out, black on yellow.

An etching which we can recognize as such is "Edge of Woods." Through its fine cross-hatch, Richard Zeiman finds simplicity and depth in the meeting of trees and stream.

Moons. Leonard Baskin's print, "Forest at Night," is a mood picture with the hint of moonlit tree trunks picked out of a darkening woods. One couldn't miss J. L. Steg's "Moonscape," for the moon jumps right out at you and the 'scape comes later. This is semi-abstract, quite stark and effective.

In these prints and others at Gallery 100, there is a change of pace and a variety of interest to be found and possibly one landscape which would receive your vote.

SHAHN TO APPEAR
Will Autograph Books. Ben Shahn, Princeton neighbor, will come from his home and studio in Roosevelt on Saturday, November 9, to autograph copies of his new book at the Princeton University Store. Mr. Shahn's appearance is scheduled for 2:30.

The book is "Ben Shahn: Paintings," just published by George Braziller. The volume contains 96 reproductions, 24 of them in color, of Shahn's easel works and murals, covering his early experiments in the '30's through his latest work.

As a companion volume, Braziller is issuing "Ben Shahn: His Graphic Art," originally published six years ago and now brought up to date to include Shahn's most recent graphic art. This volume has more than 100 reproductions, including eight in color. The volumes may be purchased separately, or together in a boxed set.

McCart Theatre. The show of paintings by Peter Turnquist has been extended through this week. The oils represent the past two years' work strongly influenced by Matisse.

DANCES, PONIES, TEA

At International Festival. For two days next week-end, the YWCA will be turned into an international bazaar, with something for everyone from everywhere.

The fund-raising event will begin next Thursday at 9 p.m. with an International Club dance, and will continue all day Friday, Friday evening and all day Saturday. Proceeds will go to YWCA organizations in 72 countries around the world.

Hosts and hostesses from ten countries will welcome guests to the dance, which is open to the public with music by the Bill Tunney Four, and refreshments by the "Y." The welcoming committee will consist of Marianne and Tohr Yamaguchi, from the United States and Japan; Dominique Valle, France; Pat Shone, England; Poh Gek Ooi, Malaysia; Gun Svedberg, Sweden; Elpidio Olympic, Togo; Wu Lee, Hong Kong; Rabinder Madan, India and Fritz Kunz, Germany.

Friday at 9:15 p.m., Mrs. Florence Rockwell will present a one-hour program on gardens of the world, and throughout the evening, YWCA gourmet cooks will prepare Swedish Rosettes for Festival guests to buy.

A PONY! On Saturday, boys and girls can ride a pony or a golf cart, and watch a puppet show given by Ken Kloth and Gary Borkan. There will be a hootenanny, a treasure hunt, games and stories, too.

FESTIVAL HOSTESSES: These young women in indigenous dress will serve as hostesses for the International Festival to be sponsored by the Princeton YWCA November 7-10 at the Y Building on Avalon Place. They are, from left: Miss Lois Patterson of Hawaii, a student at Westminster Choir College; Miss Gunn Iverson of Norway, staying with Mr. and Mrs. David Blair of Herron Road; and Miss Eiko Shima of Japan, staying with Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Taplin of Armour Road. (Staff Photo)

On Saturday, Festival guests may examine a jar of peanuts in the "Y" lobby and guess how many are inside. The winner will have his portrait sketched in pastels by Raymond E. Halacy. While waiting for the winner, Mr. Halacy will occupy his time by demonstrating pastel techniques.

Throughout the day on Saturday, Japanese girls dressed in traditional robes, will perform the ancient Japanese tea ceremony. The Japanese art of origami will be demonstrated by Mrs. Lillian Oppenheimer, a skillful practitioner of the art, at 2, 3:15 and 4:15 p.m. on Saturday.

Booths with things to buy will be open all during the festival. Creche figures by the Alpine sculptor John Kienesberger, authentic Pennsylvania Dutch Hex signs, scarfs and perfumes from Italy and France will all be on sale. At a calligraphy booth, an artist will write any name in Hindi, Japanese or Hebrew, suitably done for framing.

The Festival will close on Sunday, November 10, with an International Tea from 4-6. Foreign visitors and students and residents of the community are invited to attend.

26 SENIORS CITED

For Merit Performance. The National Merit Scholarship Corporation has named 26 seniors at Princeton High School as recipients of letters of commendation. The students were honored for their high performance on the merit qualifying test given last spring. They will receive certificates endorsed by Principal Kenneth E. Michael and the president of the scholarship organization.

Some 32,000 students throughout the country will be awarded the letters. Winners of Merit scholarships will be named at a later date.

Certificate recipients are Faith Bahadurian, Gail Blattenberger, John D. Campbell, Pamela L. Conover, John D. Heacock, Richard H. Irvine, Christel Johnson, David Kilbon, Lauren Lauck, Arthur S. Link, Janet F. Lockard, Patricia Madsen, Susan Newcomer, Anita Nowlin, John Rajchman, Geoffrey Rake, Ellen Reinheimer, Jessica Rosenberg, Linda Saurman, Nancy Schenck, Kathleen Sherrick, Barbara Shore, Peter Sly, Jeffrey Stokes, Stephen Turitzin and Stephen Warner.

TO PROMOTE FRIENDSHIP

Aim of University League. The Princeton University League held its first business meeting of the year on Tuesday, followed by a tea for all members served by Mrs. Robert Goheen at Prospect.

The stated purpose of the league is "to promote social and friendly relations in the university," according to Mrs. Joseph C. Elgin, the new chairman. A series of neighborhood teas and coffees will be held in the homes of various faculty members in the next few weeks.

The members of the new board of directors are Mrs. Goheen, president; Mrs. Harold W. Dodds, honorary president; Mrs. Elgin; Mrs. Courtland D. Perkins, vice-chairman; Mrs. Heath Licklider, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Kenneth M. Rendall, membership secretary; Mrs. Norman Mather, recording secretary; Mrs. William B. Catton, treasurer; Mrs. Paul Strayer, assistant treasurer; Mrs. Raymond J. Woodrow, publicity chairman; and Mrs. John W. Tukey, adviser.

DISARMAMENT IS TOPIC

At Voters Meeting. The League of Women Voters of Princeton will sponsor a panel discussion Monday at 1 p.m. in Prospect, the home of President and Mrs. Robert F. Goheen. The subject of the forum will be disarmament.

Marking the conclusion of league's annual finance drive, the panel will include Freeman J. Dyson and Hedley Bull as speakers. The moderator will be Mrs. Stanley Pilshaw, chairman of the league's United Nations study group.

Dr. Dyson is a professor of physics at the Institute for Advanced Study. Mr. Bull is reader in international relations of the London School of Economics. The meeting is open to the public and parking will be provided on the campus.

WELLS CLUB TO MEET

For Luncheon Wednesday. The Princeton section of the Wells College Club of New Jersey will hold a luncheon meeting Wednesday at the home of Mrs. N.B. Woodworth of 1 Ober Road.

The meeting will begin at noon. All alumnae in the Princeton area are invited to attend. There will be reports by Wells alumnae on a recent meeting held on the campus.

MOON RIVER BALL SET

By West Windsor Lions. The West Windsor Lions Club will sponsor a "Moon River Ball" Saturday from 8:30 to 11:30 in the Dutch Neck School gymnasium.

The dance is being held for West Windsor teen-agers, and dress will be semi-formal. Refreshments will be served. There will be no admission charge.

DESIGN TALK PLANNED

For Art Group. Mrs. E. O. Johnson will speak before the art appreciation group of the Princeton YWCA Newcomers' Club Friday at 9:30 a.m.

It will be the first meeting of the fall for the group. Mrs. Johnson, a painting instructor for adults at the Museum of Modern Art in New York City, will speak on fundamentals of design in modern painting and interior decorating and will illustrate her talk with slides.

WHEN A LADY SAYS "NO": The League of Women Voters will dramatize its opposition to the $750 million bond issue by parading, sandwich-board style, this Friday and Saturday. Plans call for the distribution of leaflets and the wearing of placards in the Palmer Square and railroad station areas this Friday, and the Princeton Shopping Center this Saturday. Mrs. A. James Fenelon (left) and Mrs. Carl Helm show how it's done. (Staff Photo)

Mrs. Philip Hammond, chairman of the Princeton Neighborhood Association, will speak on the new program and explain the work of the Juliette Low Fund, an organization which supports international scouting. Recalling her experiences with her troop in Switzerland will be Mrs. Stanley Huff. The trip was financed by the Low Fund.

The various participating troops will conduct candle lighting ceremonies, and Troop 98 will present a choral reading. The program was planned by Mrs. Henry J. Frank.

TO DISCUSS BOND ISSUE
At High 12 Club Program.
The Princeton High 12 Club will hold a luncheon meeting Monday at Princeton Inn. Charles E. Farrington, the incumbent Democrat, and Bruce M. Schragger, his Republican opponent, for the state assembly will be present to discuss the $750 million bond issue. There will be a question and answer period following the addresses.

TO ELECT OFFICERS
For YMCA Leaders Club.
The Princeton YMCA leaders club will hold its election of officers this Friday. The club, consisting of boys in sixth, seventh and eighth grades, held its first meeting last week.

The group made plans to attend Saturday's Princeton-Brown game for its first outing. Jewel B. Wright of Cranbury is chairman of the club and other charter members include Gary Hurford, Princeton; Roland Glenn, Lambertville; and Harry Lenz and Harry Brewer, both of Hopewell.

Club members assist in directing younger boys groups at the Y. Those interested in joining should contact the youth director.

LET'S TALK TURKEY ABOUT TAXES!

Nobody, but nobody, likes to pay taxes. We may feel virtuous when we send in the check. We may tell ourselves we are being good, responsible citizens as we try to soothe the pain. But it still hurts.

Taxes are high in Princeton Township. And they have been leaping ahead year after year. It's easy enough to blame the high tax rate on a school building program. Too easy. But when an overflow crowd of Township residents turns out to question the school budget, as it did last Spring, then we have a strong signal of taxpayer concern. But let's read this signal correctly. No one was asking for less education; they were asking what they were getting for the money being spent. This is the question the Township Committee should have been asking itself for the past twenty years.

We all know that school costs will continue to rise; we know that the Township will have to do something about other long-neglected municipal needs such as recreation, the sewer system, the library, parking facilities, traffic control — the list is long. How do we pay for these?

Higher tax rates could have been avoided — and they still can be. The Township Committee could have used just reasonable foresight in setting aside additional land areas in the town for attractive research-type businesses. Many sections of this community removed from private homes, are well adapted to this kind of development. Even those few parcels of land that were set aside for non-residential use, were never used to benefit the Township taxpayer most effectively. Research-type businesses mean large amounts of tax dollars paid to the community — and small amounts of Township funds paid back in services.

Why do we have so few of these desirable ratables? Because the Township Committee hasn't gone after them. And worse yet, when the business groups sought out Princeton, they were discouraged by impossible building stipulations.

Princeton Township has to make a decision. It can hold down its tax rate by doing nothing — let the schools slide toward mediocrity, and let the other municipal needs remain on paper as they have for the past twenty years. It can go ahead as it has in the past — just raise taxes anytime it gets pressed for funds. Or it can go after high-income-producing ratables that will keep Princeton the most desirable community in the state. Let's vote to keep Princeton ahead of its problems.

CHAPTER FORMED

For Howell Patriots. A new chapter of the Sons of the American Revolution has been formed in Hopewell. The organization is the 23rd in the state.

It will be known as the John Hart Chapter after one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence. Mr. Hart was a one-time resident of Hopewell and owned a farm there.

There are 56 members of the chapter, which was organized a little more than a week ago. Among the activities planned by the group are the completion of the John Hart genealogy and sponsoring of speakers at town meetings. Those interested in joining should contact J. Neil Arrington of 16 Hart Avenue, Hopewell.

LIBRARY HOURS ADDED

Six Days In Lawrenceville. The Lawrenceville Community Library has extended hours to six days a week. The library will now be available to all Monday through Friday from 2-4, Tuesday evening 8-9 and Saturday from 11 to noon. On Monday, Tuesday and Thursday, the library is open from 11:30 to 1 for school children and noon to 1 for all.

Mrs. Edward L. Herriek, chairman of the Friends of the Library, is chairman of this year's fund-raising project, a fruit cake sale. Serving under Mrs. Herriek are Mrs. Alfred Coley, Mrs. Hugh Wright, Mrs. Parker Striffler, Mrs. William Sharp, Mrs. Robert Miller, Mrs. Clyde Townsend and Mrs. John H. Dill. Those wishing to purchase a cake may contact any of the committee members.

VALUES FOR TEENS

Panels Scheduled. The problems faced by parents in developing standards for teenagers will be explored in a series of three panels, "Developing Teenage Values" sponsored by the YMCA. The first, to be held next Wednesday at 8 p.m. at the "Y", will be concerned with boy-girl relationships, drinking, sex and marriage.

Dr. John Sly, will moderate a panel consisting of Mrs. John H. Trimble, executive director of the Family Service Agency; Dr. Edwin D. Rogers, chief of psychiatric service at Princeton Hospital; Kenneth Michael, principal of Princeton High School and Miss Jean Smith, director of the Florence Crittendon Home, Trenton.

Subsequent panels will discuss teenage life in suburbia and helping young people to find a meaningful life's work. Daniel Mazzarella and William Cherry are directors of the program for the "Y".

WOMEN TO BEGIN DRIVE

In Lawrence Township, The Provisional League of Women Voters in Lawrence Township will begin its annual finance drive Friday with a coffee at the home of Mrs. Jack Sklansky in Trenton. Mrs. Elmer Alpert of the Princeton League will address the meeting.

Officers and members of the board of directors will seek support for the drive from 180 business organizations in the township. Relying upon voluntary contributions to carry out its service projects, the league will continue the drive through November 9.

The fund-raising effort will conclude with a tea in the home of Mrs. Henry Chauncey of Rosedale Road. Solicitors will be Mrs. Clive Usiskin, Mrs. James Armington, Mrs. Sidney Rowland, Mrs. Raymond Hallows, Mrs. Paul Harrison, Mrs. Florence Deems, Mrs. F. Stuart Harmon, Mrs. Bernard Draeger, Mrs. Donald Towns, Mrs. Joseph Feinberg, Mrs. Milton Levin, Mrs. Stephen Sussna, Mrs. Paul Williams, Mrs. Stephen Lichtenstein, Mrs. William Rounds, Mrs. Charles Fueselner, Mrs. R. GOING BACK in Town Topics

FIVE YEARS AGO

October 28, 1958. A new restaurant had joined the collection of Princeton's palate palaces and had met with immediate success — despite the handicap of being able to offer diners-out nothing in the way of aperitifs except fruit juice.

The King's Court, attractive recreation of a Colonial inn, provided 18th Century menus with 18th century printing which intrigued and entertained its patrons. Sample: "Firlon steak to make y latte-buds quiver."

Said TOWN TOPICS: "We forefee — excuse us — we foresee a sharp increase in annoyed waiters saying, 'If just one more customer asks for "fome onion foup and make it laft," I'm gonna pour it down his infide pocket.'"

The State Highway Department had just completed a complicated traffic study (that "f" for "s" business is tough to forget) on Nassau Street and had come up with some pretty startling figures for "a normal peak hour in Princeton." According to the SHD statistics, some 15,130 vehicles travelled on upper Nassau in the 60 minutes measured. They were judged to be "20 percent higher than they should be for our facilities," according to the Borough engineer's office.

The figures also sound inaccurate. They work out to a rate of about four cars per

Why I Plan to Vote

Republican

By John D. Gordon

Democratic

By Joseph L. Bannon

With election day in the offing, as a registered Republican, I am happy to endorse the candidacy for re-election of Mayor Patterson. This young man who has, for the past two years, displayed his ability and used talents and experience for the betterment of Princeton, should have the support of all who have the good of their town at heart. In the heat of a campaign, only too often are important things forgotten or overshadowed by snap judgments and incomplete information. The other day a friend said to me: "Just look at how taxes keep rising here. Why should we reelect the present Borough officers?"

Now all that my friend remembered was the $7.24 figure on the tax bill. Yes, her tax was 22 cents higher than it was in 1962—that is, it was $7.24 per hundred instead of the $7.02 last year. However, included in the $7.24 were $3.42 for schools and $2.06 for county taxes. Over neither the school nor the county taxes does Mayor Patterson have any control.

In my opinion, our mayor should be commended and supported for his careful, prudent conduct of the government, keeping the tax rate for local purposes to the lowest point since 1961 when it was $1.82. Mayor Patterson has not taken his fellow townsmen through an uncharted course despite the national policy of deficit financing.

When Mayor Patterson took office he refused to sweep under the rug the vital problem of the need for a bypass road around Princeton to remove truck traffic from Nassau Street and the streets running into it. This urgent need became a "must" on the new Mayor's agenda the very moment he took office. Working with many agencies, including the University and the Township, public hearings and many conferences were held with the result that at long last the State has announced the proposed bypass is to become a reality.

The safety of Princeton children as well as pedestrians and motorists was another thing that the newly-elected Mayor, back in 1962, decided to do something about. Accidents were becoming all too frequent at Bayard Lane and Avalon.

This death-trap was crying to heaven for removal. The State had not acted and, indeed, seemed reluctant to take up the matter. But that young man Patterson got busy.

The State was prevailed on to change its mind and now there is a fine traffic light there. The result is that accidents are dwindling away to a trickle. Isn't it worth while to keep a man like Patterson in the mayor's chair?

Our Mayor not only refuses to sweep things under the rug, Minot C. Morgan, Jr., is the man who must be elected Mayor of Princeton. Personal and professional qualities fit him for the job.

Personally, Mike Morgan is a man of conviction and force, who tells you outright where he stands; and he stands in the right. Professionally, Mike Morgan has a background of service—dedication to his community and the human beings who live there.

I grew up in a small college town, Hanover, N. H., home of Dartmouth. Even up there in that good North Country the dreadful effects of certain forces in modern life have corrupted the landscape, both human and natural. Princeton is a thousand times more endangered by these forces, being as she is surrounded by large cities and their on-rushing populations.

It is only through humanistic planning, which is Mike Morgan's credo, that Princeton can achieve progress and preservation. To my mind this is the key to the entire Democratic Platform: progress and preservation. And it is the key to Princeton's future.

Princeton is unique. That is why you and I live here.

It is unique because, as Morgan and his fellow Democratic candidates have pointed out, it affords us and our children the feeling of a small town, and all that this implies by way of moral enhancement; because it has the pleasant material advantages of an enlightened suburb; because it has the emotional and intellectual stir and questing of a great University town. All this must be preserved.

Through rational planning, motivated only by what is sound and good for Princeton as a whole, and not what is good for any single element, the Democratic candidates are committed to implementing their beliefs. They are—all of them—people who have proved themselves on the firing line. That is where they will continue to prove themselves, because their beliefs are activist.

A good example of this is Mike Morgan's active role in promoting human rights, for everyone, within Princeton. His convictions here leave absolutely no doubt in anyone's mind.

He has pledged, if elected, the creation of a Borough Hu-but he persists in pulling things out from under the rug. Take, for instance, the question of inter-municipal relations.

Mayor Patterson right off the bat decided it was high time to get that important subject out of the mists and dust. So he got together with Bob Dilley, the executive director of the joint committee that has that question under advisement, and now a joint study group has been set up to get something done.

Mayor Patterson, being young himself, is much interested in the needs of young people. He had not been in office long before he had set up (together with the Township) Community Gardens as a recreational center. Now other lands are being acquired for open space under the State Green Acres program.

The Mayor's wisdom and financial foresight as well as his unending drive for the good of Princeton has borne fruit. The papers are all but signed permitting the trade of the present Borough Hall property for the Miss Fine's School property.

The Borough leases the present property and will do the same, but on a long term lease, on Miss Fine's School property. The outstanding benefit of this arrangement is that all governmental facilities will be on one side of Stockton Street and, if desired, could be used for a new Borough Hall.

Why continue this catalogue of pledges fulfilled, high purpose achieved, fidelity to his town and those who have placed their trust in him, singleness of purpose and unquestioned integrity? Do not abort this administration, now only two years old.

Princeton needs and calls for a renewal of the Patterson contract solemnly sealed at the polls. Vote, with me, the straight Republican ticket.

In all, the non-sectarian group has supplied 20 agencies with wearing apparel. Mrs. Joseph Nini, president of the guild, will be in charge of next Thursday's meeting for members and their friends.

Isn't it time Princeton Township DID something about . . .

- 1. Recreation facilities?
 They are needed . . . they are wanted . . . and a joint Township-Borough Commission has submitted a complete plan. But our Township Committee has taken no action.
- 2. Civil rights?
 Private groups cannot do it alone — as our Township Committee would have you think. We must have an official Human Rights Commission to give civil rights purpose and direction — to speed action now!
- 3. Our growing tax burden?
 It's obvious that our income must be larger to meet our growing needs. But something must be done to relieve the individual homeowner of this burden. We must seek out new ratables among research-type firms!

Make YOUR vote count for ACTION on these vital issues!

The way you vote in this year's election can have a great deal to do with how much Princeton Township does in the next year on these vital needs. Whether you normally vote Republican, Democratic or Independent, you can't lose by using your vote to speak out for action now!

THE PRICE IS RIGHT on the Bond Issue in the opinion of Erich May, manager of The Fabric Center, who argues that the alternative—a sales tax—would hurt business. The majority of respondents, however, are opposed to the Bond proposal. (Staff Photo)

Question of the Week

Question: How do you plan to vote on the Bond Issue?

Where asked: Around town.

Erich May, 24 Witherspoon Street, manager of The Fabric Center: Yes. Because I believe it is the only way we can avoid a sales or income tax. And I believe nobody in New Jersey wants it the way our neighboring states have it. If New Jersey were to adopt a sales tax, it would hurt business without question. All you have to do is look to see how many people from Pennsylvania come to New Jersey to buy.

Mrs. Guy Schupp, 180 Franklin Corner Road, Lawrenceville, housewife: No. I don't see why New Jersey doesn't get a sales or an income tax. A little of both would bring in a lot of revenue and everybody would be happy. It's nothing to get used to. The state where I came from had both and it seemed to work out okay. I think if the people of New Jersey want better highways and better educational facilities, then the people of New Jersey should be willing to pay the cost and not try to get a lot of the money from out-of-state drivers.

Charles W. Cornforth II, 71 Westcott Road, industrial relations: No. I can't see paying two-thirds of the cost of the issue in interest. Frankly, I'm a pay-as-you-go believer in the matter of state finances, as far as is possible. From what I gather this bond issue would increase the state debt three times to what it has ever been before. This doesn't seem to me to be an especially smart way to finance things. I think politicians should have the intestinal fortitude to charge for the money they are going to spend at the time they are going to spend it. Otherwise you have the old run-around of saying: Look, let's give everybody everything and no one will have to pay for it.

Mrs. Ann Clay, Pennington-Rocky Hill Road, housewife: No. Because I've been persuaded by what the League of Women Voters says, to be perfectly honest.

Mrs. Donald Klinzer, Diverdy Road, Pennington, housewife: No. I think it's unrealistic — mortgaging our future and all that. It's not taking care of our present financial problems in a responsible way, in my opinion.

Miss Barbara Genty, Brunswick Pike, beautician: I think I'll vote for it. It seems like a sensible thing to do. By using turnpike funds, out-of-staters can share some of the burden.

Norman Anderson, 223 Mount Lucas Road, secretary-business manager, Princeton Township Board of Education: No. Because I think it is just a stopgap arrangement. I hope its defeat will jar the legislature into adopting a broad base tax.

Mrs. Ann Fleck, 40 Edwards Place, legal secretary: I'm against it. I feel it will create more taxation because of the extra staffing and that sort of thing. What I am afraid of is that the public, which doesn't know enough about it, will be railroaded into it. Maybe it does have some good points but I think they should wait a year before deciding to vote on it.

William B. Foulk, 17 S. Stanworth, retired Director of Purchases, Princeton University: Against. For one thing, the amount of interest that is going to have to be paid is a very large proportion of the bond issue. Secondly, I think it is a class tax; they're taxing the motorists. I think the argument that people outside the state are going to help pay for it is rather dishonest. I think we ought to be able to stand on our own two feet. If we have to have additional taxes then I think a sales tax or an income tax would be more equitable. I've always objected to their taking gasoline taxes and using them for something else, rather than for roads, which is what the tax originally was supposed to be limited to. Furthermore, the money we are now getting for the construction and repair of roads will be used for other purposes.

Miss Margaret Froschauer, 31 Palmer Square, teacher: Yes. Because I'm a school teacher. If they don't get it here, where are they going to get all that money? I think the educators in the state should be concerned. Anyone who has driven on these turnpikes, especially in the northern part of the state, can see how extremely crowded they are. I think we should get something out of all this traffic, rather than make the individual pay through a broad base tax.

Gifford M. Uplegrove, Maplewood, retired lumber executive: Against it. It is not definite enough to suit me. It's too long, too easy to pad. It will amount to over a billion instead of millions by the time our successors will be able to pay it off.

Marinus Van Waele, Princeton Medical Group, Princeton Hospital, obstetrician: After due consideration, I am going to vote against it because, essentially, it is poor economy. The state does need the money but I think a broad base tax would achieve this better than a relatively expensive Bond Issue. If they need the money immediately, they could turn to a shorter term issue or one considerably less than $750,000,000. To pay off that much money with tolls — which are uncertain — is un-

AUTHOR TO SPEAK

Before Memorial Association. The Princeton Memorial Association will meet Sunday at 8 to hear a talk by Jessica Mitford on American funeral practices.

Miss Mitford is the author of "The American Way of Death," which went through four printings in its first two weeks on the market. An Oakland, Calif. housewife, the authoress has become well known for her opposition to ostentatious funerals.

Mrs. Peter Putnam, president of the area memorial association, will introduce Miss Mitford. Mrs. Putnam said that there will be a discussion period following the talk.

Mrs. Putnam reported that the association has grown 20 percent in the past year and has a membership of 280. The organization operates in an advisory capacity, encouraging members to make advanced plans for their own funeral directors.

It also cooperates with the Delaware Valley Eye Bank to urge donation of eyes to aid the blind. At the November meeting, copies of Miss Mitford's book will be on sale.

TRUST FUNDS TOPIC

Of Women's Club Meeting. The Women's College Club will hear Mrs. Nancy B. Staub discuss trust funds and estate planning at its meeting Monday at 1:30 in the Unitarian Church. Mrs. Staub, a past president of the National Association of Bank Women, is trust officer of the Trust Com-

Edward W. Robinson, Kendall Park, executive director, Central NJ YMCA camps. Against it, I don't think it's been properly thought out. I'm not sure where the money is going. I'm not sure what I am voting for. To me, the whole thing is a little too much to swallow. There is a big question in my mind with the placing of Interstate 95 along side the turnpike. I think this would cut the turnpike revenue in half. Certainly, people aren't going to take a toll if they can take a free one. Route 95 is well underway, too. Parts of it are open already.

Arthur L. Bigelow, 39 Moore Street, Princeton University Professor: If we have a choice between a broad base tax and a bond issue, I'll take a bond issue. I don't want any state tax even though one way or another we are going to have to have an additional tax to help pay for the bond issue. We'll never get out of this alive. At least this way one pays what one sees on the price tag in a store or restaurant. I think it is a darn shame that we even have to consider a bond issue because the government will get what it wants and the people will have to pay Hostesses at the tea following the meeting will be Mrs. Bannard Adams, Mrs. R.A. Benham, Mrs. Warren Bliss, Mrs. Schuyler Christian, Mrs. Arthur Curtiss and Miss Florence Snow.

Coffee hours are scheduled in the Princeton area with the following neighborhood hostesses. Mrs. William R. Alken, 87 Brookstone Drive; Mrs. Richard Barach, 86 Poe Road; Mrs. Samuel W. Blizard, 48 Mercer Street; Mrs. John F. Brinster, 271 Mercer Road.

Also, Mrs. George F. Bush, 391 Nassau Street; Mrs. Earl L. Douglass, 41 Armour Road; Mrs. Charles S. Griffin, 478 Riverside Drive; Mrs. Peter C. Holmback, 180 Laurel Circle; Miss Julie Hudson and Miss Isabelle Stouffer, 49 Palmer Square West; and Mrs. John M. O'Shea, 2 Ryan Road, Cranbury.

MRS. GOODE TO SPEAK At AAUW Meeting. The

American Association of University Women will meet next Wednesday at 8:15 at the Unitarian Church. Mrs. Kermit Goode will address the group on "Helping the Unemployed Youth". She is senior employment counselor at the Youth Career Development Center in Newark and chief assistant to Simeon F. Moss.

The Center, one of two federally sponsored pilot projects, deals with the problems of the drop-out student, the unskilled laborer and discrimination. It has a staff of 30.

Hostesses at the meeting will be Mrs. J.A. Buckland, chairman; Miss Dorothy Wagner, Miss Susan Thuthill, Mrs. Louise Verbeyst and Mrs. Orville Palmer.

NEW BUILDING DEDICATED

For School of Architecture. Princeton University's new architectural building was dedicated Saturday by President Robert F. Goheen, Robert W. McLaughlin Jr., director of the school, and Charles H. Richter

Jr., the architect. The new building includes studios and classrooms along McCosh Walk and a faculty-preceptorial wing which forms a courtyard with adjacent buildings.

The School's former location since its founding in 1919 was a wing of McCormick Hall, now in the process of enlargement for the department of art and archaeology and the Art Museum.

CALL THE LEAGUE

For Hopewell Returns. The League of Women Voters of Hopewell Valley will give election results by telephone from 9 to 11 this Tuesday.

Those interested in Hopewell Borough should call Mrs. Kenneth Fristoe, 466-0630, or Mrs. Samuel K. Hunt, 466-1161. Mrs. Martin Kats (737-2039) and Mrs. Joseph A. No Agreement Made.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

In a letter printed in your paper last week, Mr. R.W. van de Velde makes some very curious charges against the Republican Club of Princeton.

The substance of his charge is that we Republicans have broken a "gentleman's agreement" not to discuss developments concerning the long-sought 206A by-pass.

That no such agreement ever existed is obvious from Mr. van de Velde's own letter. He writes that he telephoned Fred Schluter, then president of the Republican Club. Mr. Schluter "at first professed to see nothing 'political' in the situation, but later agreed to inform his candidates of the Democrats' offer."

This is precisely what happened! Mr. Schluter made no agreement then or since, nor have I, as the new president of the Republican Club.

We still fail to see how we have been "wilfully misleading." The advertisement that incensed Mr. van de Velde claimed that "in cooperation with officials from the Township, Princeton University, and other groups, your Borough officials have vigorously pursued his matter (206A) with State officials."

This is completely true. It is also true, as Mr. van de Velde states, that a great many men of goodwill from both parties have contributed to the effort. The advertisement in question attempted to point out that Republicans have been four-square in this cause and will continue to be.

If Mr. van de Velde thinks his party can claim more, we invite him to forget a "gentleman's agreement" that existed only in his mind and state the facts as he sees them.

Children's Safety Ignored.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

With so much care and imagination going into the planning of the new Borough Elementary School, the School Board's position on Franklin and Guyot Avenues is strangely out of key. Safety and access are the most important factors in picking any school site. Therefore, it is amazing to find that the Board at present is disregarding these factors!

If the Board carries out its present plan to eliminate these two streets, the new school will front illogically on a road which has no cross access for an incredible distance—3,050 feet (or approximately seven blocks!) Can you visualize the colossal mess Borough parents, teachers and children will be involved in if this is the case? One cannot help but wonder if, in its eagerness to get this tract, the Board agreed too hastily to the closing of Franklin Avenue.

The Township does not have to let Guyot be blocked off as the school brochure shows it. And it is still possible for the Borough to save Franklin.

The School Board has a right to this land with no strings attached. But if it and the Borough Council give away this road, they will have to share the blame for creating a chaotic and totally unnecessary traffic problem which endangers the lives of both Borough and Township children!

Democrats Defended.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

I have been following your election column, "Why I plan to vote Republican (or Democratic)" and I have not been particularly disturbed or swayed either way. However, the reply by Frederick M. English intrigued me.

His credentials would indicate that he is an educated man and for that reason would know that in the context of his letter, the word Democrat is a proper name and should be capitalized. Also it is a noun and cannot properly be used as an adjective without adding "ic". Therefore one can only assume that Mr. English is expressing his contempt for a majority of Americans who consider themselves Democrats.

This is, of course, Mr. English's privilege but it does tend to reduce one's sympathy for the poignancy of his plight that the "Republicans" have been reduced to isolated pockets of resistance and Princeton is one of these remaining strongholds. If you treat a man with contempt because of his ancestors, the color of his skin, the church he chooses to attend or for other characteristics that have nothing to do with his quality as a man, you cannot then reasonably expect him to take his previous vote and use it to help perpetuate this arrogance.

Not all Republicans take Mr. English's attitude but in our history, too many have. If Mr. English chooses to consider himself a member of an elite, so be it. But by definition, an elite is a rather small minority. He will therefore have to resign himself to sneering from his ever-shrinking "pocket of resistance."

It may shock Mr. English to learn that many Americans believe that a Boston Irish Catholic grandson of immigrants is an outstanding statesman and possibly even the most intellectual of all our presidents. His party prospers because it utilizes the best talents of Adlai E. Stevenson, Hubert Humphrey, John Pastore, Abraham Ribicoff and Edward Dudley. His party suffers only when it has to give its label to the sneering and contempt for others displayed by such pygmies as George Wallace and Ross Barnett.

The day may yet come when Princeton will return Democratic majorities and elect Democratic officials and when it does, I venture to predict that Princeton will survive and, yes, even prosper. Perhaps it will even enact some form of its long delayed programs to fill the community's needs. And I also predict that when that day comes, Democrats will treat the opposition party and its members with respect and call them "Republicans" with a capital "R".

Action Needed Now.

To the Editor of Town Topics: This is an open letter to the citizens of Princeton and to the governing bodies of the Borough and Township:

During the past few years I have read and heard of the increase of house-breaking and robberies in our community. This is the type of thing that always happens to someone on the other side of town or around the corner, but when it happens to you it really shakes things up.

On Sunday evening, October 20th, my wife and I attended the wedding reception of a friend and returned home at about 10 p.m. to find that our home had been broken into and ransacked in a search for money. You cannot realize the shock of such a development until it finally happens to "you." Living in a small college town like Princeton, we tend to feel that we are immune to the fact that our so-

Mrs. Douglas H. MacNeill of Cherry Valley Road has been elected first vice-president of the National Girl Scout Council. She was named to the position last week at the national council convention in Miami Beach, Fla.

Mrs. MacNeill has been in scouting since 1930 when she served as a trainer on the national staff. In 1939 she moved to Princeton and was elected president of the area council, a position which she held from 1940-42.

Appointed to the organization's national board in 1953, she became chairman of the national program committee two years later. She has also had a hand in helping to compile the four new handbooks and a leader's notebook published this year by the scouts.

Mrs. MacNeill has been active in many other area service organizations including the planning committee of Princeton Day Schools, of which she has been chairman, and the Women's Auxiliary of Trinity Church, which she has served as president. A native of Natheez, Miss., she is a graduate of H. Sophie Newcombe College of Tulane University in New Orleans.

R. Manning Brown Jr. of 50 Westcott Road and James M. Hester of 68 Woodland Drive have been inducted as trustees of Princeton University. BUSINESS In Princeton

PLUS SIGNS AGAIN

In Business Index. The word is "up" again for the July-August-September business quarter, and a particularly encouraging "plus" sign is the 65% upswing over last year in the sale of new cars in Princeton. One year ago, in 1962, the TOWN TOPICS index showed a 6% decline from the summer quarter of 1961, in new car sales.

In figures, rather than percentages, the current statistic is interesting because it shows a total of 543 new cars purchased during the three month period, or 181 cars a month. TOWN TOPICS polls six car dealers to obtain these figures, and this means that each dealer averaged more than 90 cars. The figures don't actually break down that way, of course, because one dealer was far out in front, but they do have the nice, ringing sound of prosperity.

The decline in parking meter receipts only means, as it does every year, that people tend to go away in the summer and to park less in Princeton than on a main street in Maine.

Savings and checking accounts have lined up on the plus side almost every quarter since the Index began; in fact, the last minus was a minute 2% decline in savings between the summer and fall quarters of 1961—two years ago.

To translate into figures, Princeton banks reported $48 million in savings accounts for the quarter ending September, 1961, in contrast to the $57 million reported for the summer quarter this year.

Buildings Going Up. Construction figures in both Borough and Township habitually produce the kind of statistics that make no statistics at all. For example, the 500% decline in new housing starts in the Borough simply means that five houses were built last spring, and none this summer. The 200% decline from last year means that two houses were built last summer and none this summer.

Those percentage leaps in the value of buildings permits reflect, as usual, construction activity on the part of the University. In this case, the permits are for work on McCosh Hall and the forthcoming new Woodrow Wilson building at Washington and Prospect.

Another booster for that Borough figure is the $180,000 office-building that will be built at 194 Nassau Street by George Sands, Associates.

In the Township, a building permit for the $1½ million library at the Institute for Advanced Study and the $701,000 American Can building served to raise the value of building permits and to keep the 13% decline from last year from being even sharper.

The pleasantly plump economic situation in Princeton seemed to hold throughout New Jersey during the summer quarter, and state officials have found a high level of retail sales, coupled with increased installment credit.

Unemployment "lagged a bit" in the words of the labor department, but in the Trenton area, there was no appreciable change in the job picture. Throughout the state, employment in construction fields was at the highest level in 26 months.

Just to show that New Jersey isn't all industry and research, education and construction—the Burlington office of the state employment service has a request for a cowboy: "qualified herdsman wanted, family man preferred."

EVERETT ELECTED

To Head Bankers. Arthur L. Everett, vice-president and cashier of the First National Bank of Princeton, has been elected president of the Mercer County Bankers Association.

Mr. Everett has been with the First National Bank since June, 1930, when he joined the organization as bookkeeper. In 1954 he was elected cashier and in 1959, vice-president and cashier.

Mr. Everett is a trustee of the New Jersey Bankers Association Insurance Fund and a director of the Nassau Savings and Loan Association.

Among those elected with Mr. Everett were Archie G. Lummis, assistant cashier of the First National Bank, who will be secretary of the county bankers' group.

RCA STARTS BUILDING

On New Laboratory Wing. Construction has begun on a new laboratory wing of RCA's David Sarnoff Research Center in Princeton. The new southwest wing is scheduled for occupancy in 1964.

The building's new portion will provide 39,000 square feet for housing some 40 laboratories. The addition will also contain office and shop space.

When completed, the total space at the Princeton center will be 472,000 square feet. The new wing will be a three-story facility.

Dr. James Hillier, vice-president of the center, said the addition would help to relieve existing pressures on laboratory space. The research organization, he added, has doubled its size since it was established in 1942.

Part of a long-range building program, the wing will be extended southward in the next phase to reach Fairview Avenue. The contractor for the construction work is Lewis C. Bowers and Sons, of Princeton.

HENDERSON FIRM MOVES

To Alexander Street. The real estate firm of John T. Henderson Associates is moving on Friday to new offices at the corner of Alexander Street and University Place. For the past two and a half years the organization has been located at 341 Nassau Street.

For Mr. Henderson the move is a return to quarters which he previously occupied. Four years ago his offices were situated in the same building in which he will be located starting Friday.

WITTE, LEONG EXPANDED

Move to Nassau Street. Witte and Leong Associates, Princeton's only industrial design firm, has moved its headquarters to 20 Nassau Street to accommodate its expanded operations.

The firm, formerly located in the Benson Building, provides industrial design services to manufacturers throughout the East. Chiefly, the company designs machine-made consumer and industrial products.

Recent projects have included an instrumentational tape recorder, a line of toy trucks, automatic welding equipment and electronic detection devices. In addition to product design, the firm offers graphics, packaging, interior and exhibit design.

PRESSURE NOW BUILDING

As Tigers Stay Unbeaten. If a football team which has amazed this section of the country by rolling undefeated through its first five games could somehow shut itself off from the attendant clamor, it might have a better chance of winning its final four.

Standing alone atop the Ivy League, and ranking with just three other major colleges in the U.S. as unbeaten in 1963, Princeton will find outside pressures a distinct factor in the climactic November games. The first of these is scheduled for Palmer Stadium Saturday at 1:30 against Brown.

Not the least of the mounting problems will be the steadily increasing stories in the sports pages, and the constant use of superlatives in defining the Tigers' brand of play. Over-confidence has destroyed the hopes of many a front-running team, and newspaper clippings on past performances can be a prime factor.

Adding to the pressure is the unbeaten status itself. Dartmouth, which took the nation's longest streak (15 games) into its meeting with Harvard naturally hoped hard for another conquest, but the Green will inevitably play a more relaxed brand of football now that it can stop counting.

Tigers a Prime Target. Biggest factor of all, of course, is the shoot-the-works attitude with which Princeton will be confronted in its final four games. Brown, Harvard, Yale and Dartmouth—the last three

THE HOLE STORY: Gaps like this in Cornell's defenses, chopped by Princeton blocking, allowed Tiger backs to run for 414 yards in Saturday's 51-to-14 triumph. almost invariably the toughest teams on the schedule—will consider the Princeton game their biggest objective.

Most rugged assignment of all, of course, will be the meeting with Harvard at Cambridge on November 9. Having beaten Dartmouth before a near-capacity crowd of 38,000, the Crimson may well pack a standing-room-only audience into its gaunt stadium for the game that could see the victor become the eventual Ivy champion.

QUICK LOOK AT BROWN

THE LINE: Good ends, guards strongest of interior linemen. Depth lacking.

CHIEF ASSET: Offense generated by Hall has averaged 21 points a game.

CHIEF PROBLEM: Defensive difficulties with interior line and line-backing.

TYPE OF ATTACK: Wing-T, splitting one or both ends.

Brown's resurgence this season adds to the steam in the pressure cooker. The Bruins will come here with a 3-2 record—their best at this date in five years—including Ivy victories over Yale and Penn and a one-touchdown loss to Dartmouth.

Like many a team that wins occasionally but not consistently, passing is the Bruins' primary threat. Chief aerial artist is sophomore Bob Hall, who stepped in at quarterback for the injured veteran, Jim Dunda, when the season began and has held the assignment ever since despite Dunda's recovery.

Hall is close to 50% in accuracy and, like Cornell's Gary Wood, is also a runner. He averages four yards per carry and the Bruins can point to a three-touchdown average in their first five games as evidence of his ability to move the team.

With Dunda also available, the Rhode Islanders can be expected to throw on virtually every series of downs. This will be particularly so because their ground game lacks authority—a weakness that was seriously compounded Saturday when fullback John Kelly, their top ball carrier, was lost for the season with a broken leg.

CORNELL SHELLACKED

Purely and Simply. Add to the list of pressures that are beginning to swirl around Princeton the inevitable comparison that comes with the unbeaten Tigers' of 1951, because they walloped Cornell, 53 to 15, and the 1963 eleven hammered out a 51-to-14 triumph over the Ithacans. That Cornell team of '51 was actually a considerably stronger outfit than this year's edition (Syracuse, Colgate, Harvard, Yale, Dartmouth and Michigan were all its victims) but those making the comparison generally neglect to take a look at the record books.

Fact remains that none of the Tigers' last four opponents seems likely to stop their hell-for-leather running game. Only a slippery, sticky field, on a day when the defense could jam the middle and passing was virtually impossible, could hamstring Princeton's attack to the point where it will not be productive of at least two touchdowns.

The question, then, hinges primarily on the Tigers' ability to continue the brand of defensive play that has largely made the difference between last year and this. If they can contain the opposition to 12 or 14 points as long as the outcome hangs in the balance, it just could be they will go all the way.

Depth Proves Decisive. When the season began, Pete Porietis and Don McKay were the ranking tailbacks; Hugh MacMillan was third on the

Tigers' Pass Defense A Scoring Weapon

In other years, Princeton football fans have consistently complained about the Tigers' pass defense—sometimes with good reason. It was in 1947, for example, that Pete Dorsett, a back just elevated from the jayvees by Cornell, completed 10 out of 10 in Palmer Stadium for a record that still stands.

Things have, however, been getting better, and even last season, when Princeton had such constant defensive difficulties, statistics on pass defense were bright. The Tigers ranked third in least yardage allowed through the air and led the Ivies in touchdown passes permitted (1) and interceptions (16).

Last Saturday, the picture was at its brightest. Whereas Cornell completed seven passes good for 58 yards and no touchdowns, Princeton did much better with aerials launched by the Ithacans. The four the Tigers picked off were good for 87 yards in runbacks, capped by Ron Landeck's 47-yard jaunt for a touchdown.

depth chart and Ron Landeck was an unknown sophomore who had occasionally caught the eye in scrimmages with his defensive ability. In the fifth game of the season, with Poriatis and McKay injured, MacMillan's running helped break the game open early as he went on to create a Princeton rushing mark in Ivy League records, and Landeck served as his replacement so ably that he scored three touchdowns.

It was this sort of bench strength, demonstrated throughout the second half with reserves contributing frequently to the 14 points recorded in each of the last two quarters, that made Princeton the victor by such an unexpectedly wide margin.

Kicking Duel to Charlie

The only brother-against-brother kicking duel in the 49-year old history of Palmer Stadium was won Saturday by Charlie Gogolak, the Princeton sophomore.

Because his teammates gave him far more opportunities to boot placements, Charlie made one field goal and converted six of seven points after touchdown for a total of nine points. Pete, a Cornell senior, was limited to two p.a.'s and no field goals.

It was in the kickoff department where Charlie, almost 50 pounds lighter than his brother, really outshone him, booting several better than 60 yards into the end zone. Pete's three kickoffs were well short of that distance, but he did compile a fine 42-yard average in handling all Cornell's punting chores. Charlie does not do Princeton's punting.

For the first time this year, Dick Colman's squad had to come from behind. After Charlie Gogolak booted a 25-yard field goal to give Princeton a 3-0 lead at 7:18, Gary Wood capped a 58-yard drive with a seven-yard pitchout to Bob Baker that was good for a 7-3 advantage.

The Tigers promptly marched 98 yards for their first touchdown and added two more before the half ended. In order: Cosmo Iacavazzi plunged over from a foot out; Landeck cut inside left end from two yards out; and McKay came in for the only time to bat 1,000 when he connected on a 13-yard pass to Sonny Tufts for a touchdown.

Cosmo Takes Scoring Lead. Iacavazzi got another 110 to make him the Ivy League's scoring leader with 30 points early in the third quarter, raising the count to 30 to 7. Landeck made his second interception of the day, capping it with a heavily-escorted 47-yard return to the end zone, before Cornell retaliated briefly with its second and final score.

The fourth quarter was all Princeton. Wingback Jim Rockenbach danced 27 yards around left end at 5:42 for the Tigers' sixth touchdown behind great blocking, and three minutes later, Lynn Sutcliffe, who isn't even on the depth chart offensively, threw a 16-yard scoring pass to Landeck to cap that player's highly-revealing performance. The estimate here is that one of Princeton's top three or four tailbacks of the post-war era is in the making.

So, the Tigers turn toward the final bend and into the stretch run. They cannot take a good passing team like Brown lightly while looking ahead to tougher opposition, but belief is that they enjoy winning too much to fall victim to an upset of this calibre.

WE Congratulate

HUGH MacMILLAN
Princeton Tailback

When the season began, he was third on the depth chart. By the time Princeton's rout of Cornell had ended, he had broken a Princeton Ivy League record for yards gained rushing with 182.

Off the form he showed in Princeton's last three games, Hugh MacMillan has improved as much from last season to this as any member of the unbeaten Tigers. Dick Colman has cited him on several occasions this fall for his fine running and for his heady demonstration of the experience he has gained during his varsity career.

MacMillan's improvement is best illustrated in his new found ability to set up his interference — using his blockers to gain vital extra yardage. In the past, his extreme speed (9.7 in the 100 as a member of the track team) has frequently carried him past his blockers into the hands of opposing tacklers.

Twice on Saturday, he ripped off runs which covered nearly half the field, both times making maximum use of rugged Tiger blocking. At game's end, his 182 yards averaged out to a stunning 13 yards per carry.

A Religion Department major, Hugh is a chapel deacon and president of the Student Christian Association. The name's the same, but he is no relation to the Hugh MacMillan who played end and handled the punting duties so well for the unbeaten Tigers of 1935.

MacMillan's solid ability to play topflight football when injuries to others thrust him into a starting role gives Dick Colman a perplexing but pleasant problem for the climactic November games. The Tigers' fastest tailback is tested and ready, and when he gets a bit of daylight, he is likely to outrun 'em all.

Over-confidence is rarely the pitfall of a young squad (of the top 22 players, only seven are seniors), but the pressure-cooker in which an unbeaten team finds itself when it is playing far better than pre-season estimates indicated, may be. It will be to the permanent credit of this band of young Princetonians if it goes on to shatter all 1963 Ivy League forecasts by picking up the marbles.

THREE FOR THREE? Somerville Is Strong. When the Princeton High School football team defeated Ewing Saturday, 14-6, it accomplished something the school hadn't been able to do since 1961: win two in a row. Now the question is, can the Little Tigers make it three straight?

The answer will center on the reappearance of a former, long-time opponent of PHS—Somerville. Before the two broke off relations a few years again, they annually locked horns, usually right after the PHS-Trenton game. And it is the recollection of Dick Wood, PHS coach, that Somerville is one of the few schools that enjoys an edge over PHS in the number of games won.

In recent years, Somerville has lost some of its lustre. Between them, Somerville and PHS have met one common opponent in 1963 — North Plainfield, which Somerville defeated 20-6. PHS dropped a 7-6 decision to the same school in its opener.

Wood scouted Somerville in its most recent outing against Phillipsburg. He reported Somerville possessed a good passing attack, a few big boys in its line and one extremely fast back. It also employs an unbalanced line which has given the Blue and White trouble in the past.

Better Than Ewing. Offensively, Somerville uses a T and wing T formation. "They like to spread an awful lot," said Wood, who added, "They will be better than Ewing."

To defeat Somerville, PHS must play a much better brand of football than it did against Ewing. "The boys know they played poorly," Wood commented, "But I think we'll come along better this week."

"They know this is going to be a rough game. They look upon this one just as they did the Trenton game. If we can improve our passing, we should do all right."

The contest will be played at Princeton. Once again, in order not to conflict with the Princeton University game, it will start at 11.

NEVER THE TWAIN SHALL MEET: Princeton High School end Jim Boynton appears to be bowled over by the oncoming football thrown by teammate Jim Case. Actually, he lost his footing in this play, which came with less than 30 seconds to play in the first half. (Staff Photo)

On Ewing's field, PHS engineered a 71-yard drive in the second period and capitalized on an Ewing fumble in the final period to send the Blue Devils to their fourth straight defeat.

Tailback Paul Walstad scored the first TD on a seven-yard twisting run—his third of the season to lead the Little Tigers in that department. His running mate, Bill Aiken, junior fullback, plunged for the second from two yards out. It was Aiken's first six-pointer.

While the running of Aiken and Walstad shone in spots, it was the heads-up defensive play of the visitors that tipped the game their way. Tackling hard, the defensive unit forced Ewing to fumble four times and recovered three of those bobbles. In addition, it came up with two timely interceptions which helped keep the Ewing attack in check.

PHS Caught Napping. Ewing scored first when Bill Laarz, reputed to be one of the fastest seatbacks in the area, caught the Little Tigers napping on a fake kick formation. Before the defenders caught up to him, Laarz had raced 36 yards to the PHS five-yard stripe.

Two plays later, the home team scored on a pass. Then a bad pass from center caused the PAT to fizzle. Roy Ballinger blocked the attempted kick.

Princeton countered with its only sustained drive of the afternoon. En route, it gambled once with fourth down and a foot to go on the Ewing 38. The biggest chunk of the drive—an 18-yard aerial from Jimmy Case to Pete Heiberger—carried the Blue and White to the 23.

Aiken moved to the 11 in two carries up the middle and Walstad got the remaining distance. Jeff Lowe then kicked the first of two extra points.

With just 30 seconds to go, PHS threatened to score its second TD in less than a minute's play. The turnabout came when Tom Fasanello picked off an Ewing pass at midfield and returned it to the Ewing 18. Case had time for three passes but all three fell incomplete. Closely guarded by two defenders, Heiberger dropped Case's second pass on the goal line.

Throughout the second half, the play of Ewing was uninspired. PHS, for its part, got as far as the Ewing 13 in the third period, first and ten. From here it was unable to move, however, and lost the half on downs.

Lowe Recovers. Lowe set up the Little Tigers second tally by recovering a Ewing fumble on the Ewing 10 with 5:15 to go. Aiken carried three times, going over from the two on his third crack at the center of the Ewing line.

Despite the score, Wood was disappointed in his team's performance. "We should have done a lot better," he said. "We couldn't pass, our backs weren't hitting the right holes... It wasn't a good performance and the boys know it."

A poor 1-11 effort in passing substantiated Wood. Most of the time the ball was poorly thrown. Only Jimmy Case seemed to be on target but his receivers were not. Wood promised that the squad would be working on its air attack in preparation for Somerville.

Pete Webber was one Little Tiger who had a good day. Benched at the start of the game for not keying on his men properly from his linebacker position, Webber responded with a fine performance. "It was Webber's best game defensively," Wood said. "He made a number of tackles."

LAST FLIGHTS FINISH
In Springdale Championship. In the final two flights of the annual men's championship at Springdale Golf Club, Jim Dally won the fifth flight by beating Ed Conlin, 2 up, and Bob McCarthy won the sixth flight, defeating Berge Bergesen, 4 and 3.

Springdale's annual meeting is scheduled for Saturday, November 9, at 10:30 a.m. at the clubhouse. A buffet luncheon for all members and their wives or husbands, whether members or not, will be served at 12 noon.

Four have been named by the nominating committee to stand for election to the club's board of governors for a three-year term. They are Kenneth Dawes Jr., Harvey C. Emery, Edward G. Green and Glen B. Miller Jr.

FERRARA WINS GOLF
Is Puerto Rico Champion. Capt. Vince Ferrara, a Princeton resident on duty with the Air Force, won the Puerto Rico amateur championship this fall by defeating Jerry Engleson, 3 and 2. Capt. Ferrara had a two-over-par 74 in the morning round.

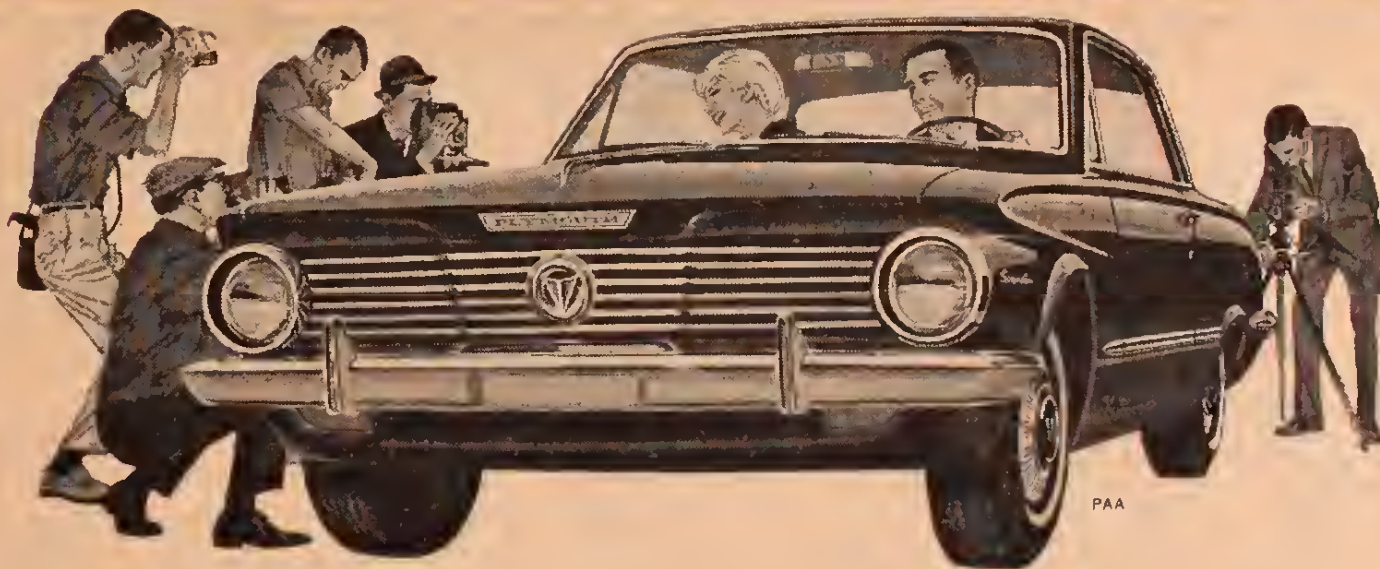

The tournament, which 30 players entered, faced the threat of heavy winds and rains from the edge of a hurricane, but the last two days of match play was held under ideal weather conditions. It is the island's most important golf contest.

LAWSONS WIN SAILING
In Carnegie Club Races, Jerry Lawson and his wife, Nancy, won the Carnegie Sailing Club's GP-14 sloop races Sunday in light winds with a score of 21.7 points. George Corl was a close second with 19.6 points, and other competitors were Walt Gibson, Rick Goetz and Mars Vanderwaart.

With one Sunday's racing remaining this season, Lawson holds a narrow lead over Goetz for the GP-14 championship. In the Penguin class, for which no races were held on Sunday, Phil Holt has a commanding lead.

HUN WINS FIRST

Pingry Here Saturday. After five weeks of trying, the Hun School football team captured its first victory Friday, defeating winless Friends Central 8-0 in Philadelphia. Hun is now 1-3-1 for the season.

Standing in the way of Hun's desire to make it two straight is Pingry. Normally, the contest would be written off as a victory for Pingry. But these are not normal times for the upstate prep school.

Usually stronger than Hun, Pingry has not had a good season this fall, a downturn that has not escaped the notice of Hun coach Hawley Waterman. Said Waterman, "Pingry doesn't seem to be as strong as in previous years, so we're hoping." Last week, Admiral Farragut upended Pingry, 20-7.

According to Waterman, Pingry will be no bigger than Hun. "They use a balanced line, T-formation and they like to throw a lot. Their offense is much like our's."

One thing in Hun's favor will be its ability to field a healthy team. For the first time in the present campaign, Hun escaped from its last outing minus any sprains or broken bones. Injuries, especially to key backfield performers, have played hob with Waterman's squad.

"We haven't been able to field the same lineup twice," said Waterman. "We've been so busy teaching new players our plays that we haven't had a chance to work on any new ones."

Against a punchless Quaker eleven, Hun scored all the points it needed in the first quarter. When the home team, unable to move against Hun, tried to punt from its own three-yard line, Jay Rhule, a 190-pound end, broke through and blocked the kick for a Hun safety.

Early in the second quarter, Hun drove downfield, grinding it out a few yards at a time on power plays. Fullback Scott

Page of Trenton capped the drive. He ran a reverse play unmolested into the end zone from ten yards out.

PCD GAINS SPLIT

In Soccer, Football, Princeton Country Day School's football team defeated a lower school contingent from Princeton High last week, 7-6. But the soccer team suffered a 3-0 shutout in its first home game against the Valley Road School.

Mike Simko picked up the touchdown for the PCD eleven on an end run. Valley Road's three goals were scored by Pete Didonata, Jim Seudder and Paul Esposito.

CHOATE NO. 5?

Larries Beat Mercersburg. Lawrenceville will be looking for its fifth win and fourth straight Saturday when the football team travels to Wallingford, Conn., to meet Choate.

The Larries picked up their fourth victory last week with 22-0 shutout over Mercersburg Academy. For nearly three periods, it looked as if the home team might have to settle for a scoreless tie.

The Red and Black finally scored late in the third quarter on a 10-yard run by Captain Will Dickey. The play completed a 50-yard drive and Clint Frank carried for the two-point conversion and an 8-0 lead.

A 56-yard carry by Warren Moore accounted for the first of two last period TD's. Barry Edwards passed 35 yards to Bob Corby in the end zone for the last touchdown. Lawrenceville is now 4-1 on the year. The Larries will finish the season against Hill following the Choate contest.

NEW JERSEY

...produces nearly 6 million eggs every day!

The poultry industry in New Jersey is the state's most important source of farm income. We can boast of having more than 3,000 commercial poultry farms ranging in "population" from 3,000 to 150,000 egg-producing chickens. Approximately 10 million chickens supplied nearly 2 billion eggs last year, which brought a gross income of over $60 million. Cumberland County led all others with Monmouth, Ocean, Atlantic and Hunterdon Counties following in that order.

To New Jerseyans, the slogan "fresher by miles" is a meaningful one and we are supporting an important segment of our economy when buying New Jersey fresh eggs with the Seal of Quality.

ciety produces the type of animal that will invade a man's home in a search for the almighty dollar. As victims of such an act the thought that is paramount in our minds is the question, "what can and what is our community doing about this problem? Can we be satisfied with having our police forces try to apprehend these criminals after the act, or is there something that we can do to prevent this type of thing from happening?"

I appeal to the citizens of Princeton and particularly to the proper authorities to solve this problem and not wait until "it happens to you," to be awakened to its terror as our family was.

Back Farm Land Amendment.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

The undersigned, as individuals interested in preserving open space, strongly urge our fellow Princetonians to vote YES for the proposed Farm Land Assessment Amendment to the New Jersey Constitution, for the following reasons:

1. New Jersey farm Property is being taxed out of existence at the rate of 1,000 farms per year, because present state law requires assessment of farm land according to the same standard of value as similar land sold for development. New Jersey farmers cannot compete with those of other states when forced to pay taxes based on land assessments of several thousand dollars per acre. Our farms are already being taxed at a rate 10 times the national average: New Jersey farmers pay about $11.00 per acre in taxes as against the national average of slightly more than $1.00.

2. The proposed amendment would make it possible for "land actually devoted to agriculture" to be assessed according to its agricultural value instead of its market value. When and if such land is changed to non-farm use, back taxes would have to be paid for the preceding two years. These provisions would encourage farming, while tending to discourage abuse by speculators.

3. The amendment would legalize what assessors in many communities have already been doing out of practical necessity for keeping farm taxes within reason.

4. Healthy farming is necessary not only for a balanced economy but also for the preservation of much of the open space which is now used as farm land but would probably be sold for development if the owners were forced to give up farming it. The aesthetic, conservation and other values inherent in open space do not need elaboration here.

Therefore, if you are interested in preserving the many obvious benefits of a healthy farm economy in New Jersey, vote on election day and vote YES on the Farm Land Assessment Amendment.

Farm Land Amendment Wrong.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

On November 5, the voters of New Jersey will be asked to vote on an amendment to the State Constitution that would lower assessments on land devoted to farm use. This amendment in its present form runs counter to the best interests of the citizens of New Jersey because it is inequitable and capricious, and it does not significantly enhance the program of acquiring public open space for the future generations of our urban society.

The amendment provides that "actively farmed" land of at least five acres would be assessed at "farm-use" value. The local tax assessors would decide if the land were actively farmed and the assessment to be applied to such land.

A provision is made that land which is subsequently taken from farm use would be subject to taxes based on the higher value for the last two years of farm use. Since this resolution assigns to hundreds of local assessing officers the responsibility of defining what is actively farmed land and what constitutes farm-value—with no prescribed formula to implement such decisions—the stage has been set for gross inequities in the application of such tax relief.

Moreover, the five acre minimum written into the bill is too low if one recalls that the average New Jersey farm contains 89 acres, and the New Jersey "truck-type" farm should be at least 25 acres in order to be economically viable. This five acre minimum, which is about 6 per cent of the size of the average New Jersey farm, would allow tax concessions to many "gentlemen farmers" who are not an integral part of the State's farming economy.

Perhaps the most undesirable feature of the proposal is that it will not appreciably enhance the existing program of retaining open space near urban centers. The pressure of rising land values to levels far greater than can be supported by the farm income produced on the land is the primary reason for the sale of farms at the urban fringe.

Tax abatements of the type proposed can at best delay the transfer of land from farmers to developers; at worse it provides a pure windfall to some who are farmers in name only and whose plans are not affected by the tax concession. Such tax abatement on farm land is equivalent to the payment of rent by society in order to secure continued open space near urban areas. But the landlord, i.e. the farmer, may at any time cancel the lease at a small penalty. The tax abatement device, therefore, cannot provide public open space for the distant future.

One alternative is to expend funds, equal in cost to the revenue loss from tax abatement, on purchase or rental arrangements designed to maintain open spaces where most needed and on more permanent terms. Another possibility is to abate taxes on a more selective basis and with greater assurance of lasting effectiveness than proposed in the amendment.

These provisions have two clear advantages: (1) They avoid providing a windfall to landowners who are at the moment only "farming" until someone will meet their price; and (2) They avoid paying for open space indiscriminately (as the proposed amendment would require us to) and concentrate fiscal effort in locations where space is found desirable.

Tale of the Tigers

Princeton's domination of the team statistics in the Ivy League was increased by its performance against Cornell.

The Tigers raised their average offense per game to 362 yards, compared to 297 for second-place Yale and 262.7 for third-place Harvard. In defense, they lead with 177.7 yards allowed, 49 yards less than Brown—at 217.3. Harvard is also third in total defense.

Cosmo Iacavazzi, Princeton fullback, is the Ivies' leading scorer with 30 points. Tailbacks Hugh MacMillan and Don McKay are fifth and sixth, respectively, in total offense with 291 and 243 yards. Columbia's Archie Roberts is first in this department with 587 in four games, one more than MacMillan and McKay have played.

259 and a 608 series. But a more unusual scoring feat was accounted for by Bill Dumble. Dumble collected 173 pins in each of his three contests. Joe Baldino had games of 232 and 200 and was followed by Joe Procaccini and John O'Neill, 211 each; Val Ranallo, 205; and Fred Procaccini, 200.

Kase Kleancers regained sole possession of first place with a total of 30 points. Trailing by two are Jugtown Defleatesen, Key Shop and Maul Electric.

Duboli Neck broke a three-way tie for the lead in the Tri-County Firemen's League to take over first place by a one point margin. With 30 points, the leaders are one up on Rocky Hill and two ahead of Kingston, Hook and Ladder 1 and Kingston Fire Department.

A 212 contest gave Stan Tatum the high game in the league. He was followed by Les Luck, 208; Jack Majole, Vince Sassman, and Carmy Panicaro, 206 each; John Donaldson, 203; Joe Cavanaugh, 202; Gib Ireland, 201; and Fred Lavole, 200.

Nassau Delicatessen scored a three-game sweep in the Nassau League and built its lead to six points. The Elks and Tiger Carage, each with 24 points, are tied for second place, two points in front of the Reformers, Grover Lumber, Thorne Pharmacy and the Knights of Columbus. Otto Olsen was the scoring leader with a 222 contest, followed by Rudy Lehnert, 206; Al Ward, 205; and Bill Dumble, 201 twice.

With three straight victories, Nassau Shoe Repair increased its lead to 10 points, 32-22, over Jefferson Plumbing and Claridge Wine and Liquor. In the Business Women's League, Marie Wiley edged Lillian Burroughs by a pin to take scoring honors with a 177 game. Emma Lohouse and Jean McDowall each bowled 166 and Lorraine Daniels rolled a 161 game.

Lawrence Township:

PARADISE LOST

With apologies to Milton, we provide one final reminder before your Election Day decision.

Lawrence Township today is a semi-rural suburban home for some 14,000 people. It can retain its pleasant, unique identity, or it can surrender to exploitation and be swallowed up in the ring of urbanization that is sprawling outward from Trenton.

Sufficient powers are allotted to local government to allow each municipality to be whatever it wants to be. But it takes an intelligent, strong-willed governing body to protect and preserve the choice of the residents.

Frankly looking at both of the local major political parties, we fail to see any signs of the motivation, let alone the ability, to do the job that needs to be done. Our INDEPENDENT candidacy is a consequence of this view. We solicit your support.

News Of The CHURCHES

BIG BUT LITTLE

First Church Has System

Two years ago this month, a handful of people began to cut the First Presbyterian Church 1,800 communicants down to neighborhood size. Labeled "neighborhood group leaders," these men and women are charged with a kind of lay ministry for their areas.

"The church must find expression beyond what takes place within her institutional walls," wrote the Rev. Dr. Donald M. Meisel to the leaders on October 1, 1961. "Worship has relevance only as it finds an outlet where people work and live."

Sense of Belonging. Following no set pattern, the neighborhood leaders have expressed the church's solicitude for its individual members and for the whole community. Their chairman this year is C. Littleton Groom of 46 Princeton Avenue, retired attorney for Bethlehem Steel.

Working in 32 home neighborhoods of 20 to 30 families each, the leaders are alert to situations which might require help from the pastor. They rally their group around neighborhood needs.

The leaders visit the sick, the bereaved, call upon new residents and welcome new church members. They report illnesses to the ministers and help with church transportation.

Gatherings. From time to time, the leaders throw a party. Mr. and Mrs. William H. Snord of Rosedale Road gave a Friday night buffet supper. "About 30 people came," Mrs. Snord reported to the other group leaders. "It was fun!" Mr. and Mrs. R. Wayne Yoder of 133 Meadowbrook Drive invited members last year for coffee and sweet rolls after church. "I think everyone in the group came!" was her pleased comment.

Strawberries and cream drew members of the unit headed by Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Cornforth of 71 Westcott Road. An outdoor party is planned by Mr. and Mrs. William W. Stewart of 231 Russell Road before cold weather sets in.

Pilot Study. Last winter, two neighborhood groups tried out discussion meetings on the topic, "The Changing Ministry of the Church." Their leaders, Mr. and Mrs. David H. Jones, 177 Jefferson Road, and Mr. and Mrs. Peter C. Holback Jr., 180 Laurel Circle, came to the conclusion that this was no natural for the groups. There were ample opportunities for study at the church.

"Be Sensitive." Members of First Church are urged to keep in touch with their neighborhood leader and "to be sensitive to any need, whether or not the people belong to our church."

At their meeting last week at First Church, a group leader reminded them: "In this very room the Open Occupancy Covenant began. It has since spread across the country."

The Fruits. "I think that the fruits of this organization are already showing," Mrs. George Mair told the leaders last week. "It has done something already for people who felt lost in a church of this size. It is really quite a thing!"

Mr. Groom added to the new group leaders: "You will find what a pleasant experience it is to get better acquainted with your neighbors. We have never found anybody lacking in cordiality."

Also serving as group leaders in neighborhoods fanning out from the Borough and Township to as far as Hopewell, Cranbury, Lawrenceville and Blawenburg are:

Mrs. Isabel Stauffer, Mr. and Mrs. Henry S. Broad, Dr. and Mrs. V. Terrell Davis, Mr. and Mrs. W. Frederick Stohman, Mrs. Helen McG. Stevenson, Miss Annie G. Turnbull, Dr. and Mrs. J. Thomas James, Mr. and Mrs. William E. Speers Jr. and Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel McLean.

Dean and Mrs. Elmer G. Hohnrighausen, Mr. and Mrs. Walton P. Butternorth, the Rev. and Mrs. Otto A. Popper, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick M. Bowers, Mrs. Albert E. Pegg, the Rev. and Mrs. Alvin D. Duha, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Ivan, Mrs. John F. Scott, Mr. and Mrs. Donald B. Reed, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cawley, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce E. Vansant, Mr. Ulysses G. Melick and Mr. and Mrs. Ernest E. Pignona Jr.

20TH OBSERVANCE SET

For World Community Day. The United Church Women of Princeton will meet at 1:30 p.m. on Friday for the 20th observance of World Community Day. The session will be held in the Society of Friends' meeting house, Quaker Road.

Mrs. Clifford A. Bender, representative to the United Nations from the board of missions of the Methodist Church, will discuss "Nation Building and the U.N." Mrs. Roy S. Vngt of Calvary Baptist Church is program chairman.

Mrs. T. Robba Webb of Princeton Methodist is president of the U.C.W. Hostesses for the meeting are: Mrs. E. Wayne Birch, Society of Friends, Mrs. Charles Herron and Mrs. Benjamin Brown, Mt. Pisgah A.M.E.; Mrs. Minot C. Morgan Sr., First Presbyterian; Mrs. Henry Dyer, Second Presbyterian; Mrs. Floyd Campbell, Witherspoon; Mrs. George Thomas, Trinity Episcopal, and Mrs. John Garner, First Baptist. Mrs. Orion C. Hopper of First Presbyterian is publicity chairman.

Donations this year are allocated to layettes and Friendship Packets for children in church institutions. Funds will also go to an in-service training program at the new Church Center for United Nations, New York City. Churchwomen from all parts of the world will hold two-week conferences at the Center from May to October 1964.

JOINT MEETING SET

By Presbyterian Women. The women of First, Second and Witherspoon Presbyterian Churches will gather at First Church this Monday for the annual Thank Offering meeting. The session which begins at 10:30 a.m. will be held in the Assembly room and Niles Chapel.

Members of the planning committee are Mrs. James Campbell, Mrs. William Tucker, Mrs. Gladys Taylor, Mrs. Loefferts Loetscher, and Mrs. John McKee, representatives of the three churches.

The women will bring their offerings for projects planned by the Board of Christian Education, the Board of National Missions and the Commission on the Ecumenical Mission and Relation. There will also be a display of items prepared for the churches' mission Christmas boxes.

Members and guests are asked to bring a sack lunch. Coffee and dessert will be served by Mrs. George Knaefer, Mrs. Fields and Mrs. Homer Jones, of the churches' Fellowship Committees.

TO HOLD BAZAAR

On Election Day. The annual Election Day Bazaar at Plainsboro Presbyterian Church will be open for Christmas shoppers from 11 to 5 at the parish house.

Attractions include culinary specialties, fine aprons, plants, toys, surprise packages and free refreshments at the hospitality table.

BULLETIN NOTES

$100,000 Raised. In a one-week campaign, the 750 members of Princeton Methodist Church have given just over $100,000 in gifts and pledges to support church work for two years. B. Woodhill Davis and Chester McKinney, co-chairmen of the canvass, reported the results at a special meeting held Monday.

Turkey Supper. A family-style, Turkey Supper, will be held this Saturday at Hopewell Methodist Church, Blackwell Avenue. Servings will begin at 4:30 p.m. Reservations may be made by calling 466-0045, or tickets may be purchased at the door.

"The Uncalled Four." A male quartette from Princeton Seminary, "The Uncalled Four," will entertain next Wednesday at the Family Night Dinner at Second Presbyterian Church. Mrs. Frederick G. Scorel, a registered nurse who has served for 30 years in overseas missions, will be the speaker. The dinner begins at 5:45 p.m.

Inner City. The Women's Society at Princeton Methodist Church will discuss "The Changing City — a Revolution in Urban" at next Thursday's meeting, set for 10 a.m. in the social hall. Mrs. John Baumunk is chairman and Shaw-Warner Circle members will be hostesses.

Men's Retreat. Lawrenceville Presbyterian Church is sponsoring a men's retreat this weekend at Camp Blair, Blairstown. The group will leave at 7:30 p.m. this Friday, returning at 6:30 p.m. Saturday. Members of the program committee are Major Garland McSpadden, C. Dicky Dyer, David Penrose and Marinus Los.

Cory S. Kammer

A student of semantics is a telling us of the many words and phrases with multiple meanings, that is, the same wording will mean one thing to one person, and a totally different thing to someone else. His illustrations will show how this can cause misunderstandings, and he selected a couple of amusing samples: In India, he says, it is very complimentary to tell a woman that she is as graceful as an elephant! Try that one on your wife or girl friend, and you'll get the point! In Iran, he says, "Stupid as an owl" is a common expression of scorn. But here is a short story from which we get only one meaning. It seems that a Mountaineer was riding along on his mule, with his wife trudging along behind. A passing stranger, surprised by the sight, stopped and asked the old guy, "How come your wife isn't riding?" The mountaineer looked him over, and said, "Cause she ain't got no mule". How about it? Hain't your wife got no car? A second car can make a whale of a difference and make you both a lot happier... and we'll see to it that you get a really good one, most economically. Obituaries

Frank B. Coakley, 66, of 57 Hastings Road, Franklin Park, died October 28 after a brief illness. He had lived in Princeton from 1954 to 1961.

Mr. Coakley, who retired in 1962, was formerly associated with the Field's hotel chain in the Midwest. He was a member of the Knights of Columbus, vice-grand regent of the Order of Alhambra, a member of the Tough Club of New York City and a veteran of World War I.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Rose M. Coakley; two daughters, Miss Joan Coakley at home, and Mrs. Richard McCarthy of New Brunswick; a son Frank P.; three sisters, Mrs. Eleanor Higgins of New York City, Mrs. Rita Spring and Mrs. Marion Murphy, both of Pasadena, Calif.

Requiem high mass was celebrated in St. Augustine's Church, Franklin Park. Interment was in Beverly National Cemetery under direction of the Kimble Funeral Home.

Mrs. Hope LeB. Roberts died October 29 at her home, 134 King George Road, Pennington, after a long illness. She was the wife of Dr. Harold E. Roberts.

A lifelong resident of Pennington, Mrs. Roberts was awarded the King George Medal in recognition of her efforts in behalf of the British War Relief during World War II.

Before her illness, Mrs. Roberts lectured on current world events in New Jersey, New York and Pennsylvania. She was active in the Pennington Presbyterian Church as a teacher in the Ladies' Bible Class and as a soloist in the choir.

The funeral will be held at

IN MEMORIAM

PETRONI — In loving memory of Mary Petroni, beloved Wife and Mother, who passed away October 31, 1957.

We look at your picture and see your smile. Our thoughts are with you all the while. It is six long years since you went away. But our beautiful memories will always stay.

Sadly missed by Husband and entire Family.

2 p.m. this Thursday in the Blackwell Memorial Home, Pennington, with the Rev. A. Kenneth Magnier officiating. Interment will be in Ewing Cemetery.

Mrs. Minnie L. Duncan of 29 Greenview Avenue died October 25. She was the wife of William F. Duncan.

Also surviving are three sons, Edwin F. of Princeton, William V. of Seattle, Wash., and B. Vernon of Kansas City, Mo.; a sister, Mrs. Lewis Larkin of Trenton; a brother, Fred Cruser of Hopewell, six grandchildren and nine great-grandchildren.

The service was held at the Malher Funeral Home, the Rev. Lloyd G. Gordon officiating. Interment was in Princeton Cemetery.

Adam A. Nagy, 80, of Princeton Junction-Hightstown Road, died October 25 in Princeton Hospital.

Born in Hungary, Mr. Nagy was employed by the Pennsylvania Railroad's maintenance department for 40 years before his retirement in 1958.

Surviving are a son, Joseph, with whom he lived; a daughter, Mrs. John Greiz, Jr. of Mercerville; and two grandchildren.

Requiem high mass was celebrated in St. Stephen's Church, Trenton. Interment was in the parish cemetery, under direction of the Kimble Funeral Home.

John S. Yard, 90, died October 24 at his home, 72 West Broad Street, Hopewell. He was the husband of the late Annie U. Yard.

A resident of Hopewell for 45 years, Mr. Yard was a member of the Old School Baptist Church. Surviving are a sister, Mrs. A. Mary Atchley of Pennington, and nieces and nephews.

The funeral was held in Hopewell, Elder Arthur Warren and the Rev. John H. Ginter, pastor emeritus of Hopewell Presbyterian Church, officiating. Interment was in Old School Baptist Cemetery.

Neilson Poe

A memorial service for Neilson "Net" Poe will be conducted by Dean Ernest Gordon at 12:30 p.m., Sunday, November 10, in the University Chapel.

One of Princeton University's football "greats," Mr. Poe died in Baltimore on September 22 at the age of 86. He was a member of the Class of 1897 and received his law degree in 1900 from the University of Maryland. He made Princeton his home for the greatest portion of his life, serving as assistant coach of football until his retirement at the beginning of World War II.

Mrs. Kenneth Condit

A memorial service for Mrs. Kenneth Condit, wife of the dean emeritus of Princeton University's School of Engineering, will be held at 4 p.m., Thursday, November 14, in the University Chapel. Mrs. Condit died on July 31 in Vermont. Dean Condit, former chairman of the administration committee of the Forrester Research Center, was dean of the engineering school from 1940 until his retirement in 1954.

Dr. Ernest Gordon, dean of the Chapel, will conduct the service. Memorial gifts, in lieu of flowers, may be made to the Greensboro Memorial Hospital, Greensboro, Vt., in care of Dean Condit, 30 Stanworth Lane.

second. On the Turnpike, maybe. But, on Nassau Street?

A long hassle between Township residents and the Princeton Riding Club finally reached the State Supreme Court. The decision: the riding club no longer had any rights to use trails in the Westerly and Brookstone tracts. Three years later, the club's empty stables at the foot of Bayard Lane burned to the ground, making a fiery finis to the riding club's activities.

TEN YEARS AGO

October 29, 1953. Dishonesty and drunken driving had been justifiably and heavily punished in Borough court that week in 1953. A Trenton factory worker was nailed with a total of $435 in fines on counts of drunken driving, driving while his license was revoked and giving a false name in applying for a license. Unable to pay the amount, he was sentenced to a four-month term in the workhouse.

The film version of James Jones' gigantic novel, "From Here to Eternity," was big business at the Playhouse. TOWN TOPICS' reviewer classified it as "an impressive demonstration of how a story with guts can be filmed in adult, dramatic fashion."

Not the least of "Eternity's" accomplishments was the casting of Farank Sinatra in a secondary role. Nobody knew it right then, but the "rediscovery" of Sinatra, after nearly ten years of relative obscurity, was to start him on a new career which, in 1963, was still fantastically successful.

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO

October 28, 1948. Did Princeton want a World War II memorial in the form of a stadium, cost unannounced, which would be built in Trenton? That was one of the questions to be posed to Mercer County voters on Election Day in 1948.

It was hard to see why Princetonians would want such a coliseum, but the odds were that they would have little to say in the matter: only 7,000 eligible voters in Princeton and 85,000 in the immediate Trenton area. In the end, however, there were enough Trentonians who voted against the lavish proposal to squelch the idea forthwith.

Urgent appeal in TOWN TOPICS' Classifieds from a homeless family: "$50 REWARD for information leading to rental of apartment or house, unfurnished, permanently in Princeton."

PARENTS INVITED

In New Family Program. The Family Service Agency of Princeton will initiate a new program in November designed to discuss the problems of family life. The program will be in addition to the agency's counseling service.

Experienced and trained leaders will be provided for the discussions of family life. Groups will consist of not more than 15 members and will meet once a week for six to eight weeks.

Sessions will last from one and a half to two hours and will center on discussion of routine problems of every day life. Parents will be encouraged to exchange ideas on how they normally deal with these situations.

Meetings will be held each week on one evening, yet undecided, or Saturday morning. Those interested should contact Mrs. John H. Trimble at 924-2098.

DIRECTOR IS NAMED

By Parenthood Agency. Mrs. John Van Ellis of Trenton has been named the new executive director of the clinic of the Planned Parenthood Association of the Mercer Area. The clinic — located at 202 Academy Street, Trenton — is open from 12 to 2 p.m. Tuesday and from 7:30 to 9:30 Thursday evening.

Mrs. Van Ellis has been active in community activities for many years. She has served as member, secretary and president of Parent-Teacher Association No. 3, past co-chairman of the Mercer County Heart Association and secretary of the People to People Program of the Greater Trenton Community Council.

HOMEMAKER IS NAMED

Mrs. McPherson Is Chosen. Mrs. Patricia McPherson of 8 Dickinson Street has been appointed the new executive director of the Princeton Community Homemaker Service. She succeeds Mrs. Emanuel Waletzky.

A graduate of the Macalaster College and Northwestern Hospital School of Nursing, she has worked at St. Peter State Hospital in St. Peter, Minn. She has also held a position at Johns Hopkins School of Public Health.

Mrs. McPherson was named director by the service's board of directors. The organization, a member of the Princeton Area United Fund, trains homemakers to aid families disrupted by illness or other crises.

DOES YOUR CHILD BELONG HERE?

Do you want a liberal religious education for your child?

In the Ethical Culture Sunday School we offer graded programs in human relations, comparative religions, ethical issues, and contemporary problems.

Ethical Culture stresses that our relationships with each other in groups and as individuals, is our most imperative religious challenge. It is a nondenominational interracial fellowship, without dogma or creed. Classes held at The Chapin School, Mercer Road at Province Line Rd.

REAL ESTATE

15 ACRES—GOOD HOUSE—$39,900
 For land lovers (the property rolls back by a farm pond to woods & stream) or developers (1 1/2 acre zoned, nice residential area on outskirts of Princeton) this is a rare bargain (a rare word in local real estate). The 7 room stone front ranch house is solid as rock, has huge rooms (basement is a potential bowling alley!) and can be charmed up by tasteful owners, practically expander by prolific ones.

YOUR GOLF COURSE BEGINS WHERE YOUR APARTMENT ENDS

Like Golf? There's only one place for you to live—Princeton Windsor Apartments. A private 18-hole course is right next door. Hate golf? Princeton Windsor Apartments is still the one place for you to live.

It lets you holiday at home throughout the year. It has 2 private pools, tennis courts, year-round clubhouse for socials and informal entertainment, on the property...and "on the house." In addition, a bowling center, skating rink, and first run movie house are right next door.

Behind your door? An apartment that's big. That's bright (each apartment is surrounded by almost an acre of landscaping). That's beautifully equipped (central air conditioning, terrace, dishwasher, 2 parking spaces are included in the rent).

WE NOMINATE

The 16 Princetonians — 10 residents of the Borough and six of the Township — who in "this fall of statewide referendum" are standing for election to public office on the all-important local level, the basic element in the functioning of American Democracy. To these 14 men and two women, Mrs. Marie B. Coan and Mrs. Marlene G. Heitzberg, Democratic Candidates for Tax Collector in the Borough and Township, respectively, belongs a world of credit for their desire to "run" and for their willingness to assume the burdens of making decisions which will shape Princeton's future and bear directly upon the lives of all of those whom they seek to serve.

These dedicated citizens constitute an unusual cross-section of the Princeton Community, one of the few areas in the country that can point with pride to education and research as its major industries. Four (Paul Baldeagle, Arthur J. Horton, Joseph A. Strayer, and David S. Thompson) have been drawn from the University, while Minot C. Morgan, Jr. and Ellwood W. Godfrey are prominently identified with The Institute for Advanced Study and Princeton Hospital, respectively. Walter B. Foster, Jr., Russell Mount, Theodore E. Stratton, Nicholas J. Bartolino and Edward G. Warren have long been associated with local professional and business enterprises. The public utilities field, the profession of law and the drug industry are represented in order by Henry S. Patterson 2nd, William M. Sloane and John R. Yost.

Veteran observers feel that the Borough mayoralty race, matching the 41-year old incumbent, Patterson, and the 50-year old Morgan, the Borough's chief executive in 1946 and 1947, could well produce the most highly fought election of the post-World War II era. The supporting roles in the Borough campaign, which during the past 10 days has emerged from a "mid-fall slump," are being filled by four exceptionally able candidates, Republican veteran Godfrey and his 43-year old running-mate, Horton, are essentially defending the present Administration's record against the challenges of the articulate Baldeagle, the first American Indian ever to appear on a Borough ballot, and Strayer, one of the distinguished historians of his time.

The four-man field for the Township Committee, is of commensurately high calibre. From the point of view of experience an edge might be conceded to Republicans Mount and Foster. The latter has been the Township's Tax Collector and the former, prior to establishing his home in the Township, devoted a full decade to the West Windsor Township Committee. On the other hand, Sloane is a member of the Township's Open Space Commission and a trustee of the Swann Estate (the owner of Borough Hall), while Yost, currently directing E. R. Squibb's Chemical Plant in New Brunswick, has made major contributions to the Township's Recreation Commission, the Princeton Opera Association and the Princeton Association for Human Rights.

On balance, it is doubtful whether any two municipalities in these United States could present a more concerned, or a more aware, phalanx of candidates. Each of the 16, without regard for primary occupational interest, has shouldered heavy additional responsibilities.

For understanding that Democracy's strength is rooted in the active participation and continuing interest of citizens in all walks of life; for placing their regard for Princeton's well-being above any personal considerations, for believing, and strongly, in all the things that make this country all that it is; they are our nominees as
